By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 19[illegible], by Star Company.)

RUSSIA is much excited about American and British "brutality" in China. Pravda, 100 per cent. Communist and anti-capitalist newspaper, says: "Your civilized herd had better know that ten million organized Soviet proletarians curse you and demand hands off China."

Our answer is: "All right, let us get our missionaries, travelers and business managers out, and you can have China."

REAL RUSSIANS, in centuries past, have seen their villages invaded, cattle killed, women carried away by hordes of invading Mongolians. Russians do not like men with slanting eyes. They are [illegible] more anti-Mongolian than anybody in this country. They know what Mongolia does on a march westward.

LET THE United States study Japan and learn something in the way of common sense.

In the big war Japan stayed out, didn't send men or money.

BLAMES N. Y. POLICE FOR MISQUOTING HIM; TELLS OF LOOT 'SPLIT'

Answers that he never made were put in his mouth by New York detectives as part of his alleged "confession," Peter J. McLaughlin asserted today in Middlesex Superior Court during his trial for the murder of James Ferneau, watchman at the Waltham carbarn.

McLaughlin, before a courtroom that was jammed with listeners, including his mother, three sisters and many other women, was cross-examined closely by District Attorney Bushnell, relative to the holdup and statement purported to have been made in New York.

Time after time, McLauglin's senior counsel, George Douglas, expert in the finer points of evidence, broke into the cross-examination

2-CENT GASOLINE TAX FAVORED BY COMMITEE

The proposed tax of three cents a gallon on gasoline in Massachusetts should be cut to two cents, the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives of the State Legislature reported today.

The committee reported that the legislative bill, with the three cent provision, "ought not to pass," but added its recommendation of a two cent tax.

This means that the committee wants the bill amended to strike out the three cent provision and substitute the two cent clause.

Vote on the bill in the House is due as soon as the members come to an end of the protracted quarrel over the banking bills.

Representatives Martin M. Lomasney of Boston and Michael H. Jordan of Lawrence, both Democrats, dissented from the report of the Ways and Means Committee.

The report of this committee super

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 29 (A.P.).—Burning the sands of the famous Daytona Beach, Major H. O. D. Segrave, an American-born Englishman, in a four-ton brilliant red speedster today catapulted his way to an unofficial world's speed record for the mile straightaway of 203.841 miles an hour.

A meeting of the American Automobile Association officials has been called to time the race officially.

The world mile straightaway mark was set by Malcolm Campbell, also an Englishman, at 173.22 in a run on a Wales beach last February.

STRONG ACTION URGED BY U. S. ENVOY UPON OUTRAGES IN CHINA

Washington, March 29 (A.P.).—Recommendations for strong action to prevent recurrence of the Nanking outrages at other points in Nationalist controlled territory were contained in a message forwarded to the state department today by Minister MacMurray at Peking.

While the message which reached MacMurray from Nanking did not bear the signature of the sender as received here, department officials believed it probably was signed by Consul John K. Davis, who is still aboard a warship at Nanking.

Says Crisis Near at Wuhu

The minister's cablegram, dated March 27, was accompanied by a report from Rear-Admiral Hough, commanding the Yangtse River patrol, which said the situation at Wuhu, up the river from Nanking, was more critical.

He reports that trouble is being stirred up and may be expected at any moment," the department said.

Minister MacMurray said a message from Nanking reported outrages there "were even more riotous than was at first realized."

Examination of depositions and verbal statements by Americans had produced evidence of two known cases of attempted attacks on American women and there were other cases "only slightly less serious in character," it was added.

"The message states that the campaign of terrorism and

DOGS BITE THREE IN REVERE, 4 IN NEWTON

A mile chase, through the streets of Revere, in which 300 men and women and children vainly tried to capture a dog which had bitten three grammar school boys, ended today when Patrolman Lawrence Dugan cornered the beast and shot him.

A half dozen telephone calls to police headquarters, from men and women in the Wolcott School district, started the chase. Sergeant John Blyghe dispatched Patrolman Dugan to the scene. The dog was found in Campbell avenue and the patrolman gave chase.

Men and women joined him in his effort to catch the dog and by the time the beast stopped in a field off North Shore road fully 200 were assembled. The dog sprang at the officer and ripped his trousers. Dugan then shot him. The animal was a large collie. Police were unable to find his owner. The three insult to foreigners is not only officially countenanced and directed, but even prearranged," the State Department announcement said.

"The incident at Nanking could hardly have been more outrageous. The worst incidents would have been greatly multiplied but for the timely bombardment.

"Suggestion is made in this message of the immediate withdrawal of all Americans in Nationalist territory and the undertaking of some action sufficiently strong to defer the perpetration of similar incidents elsewhere."

Agitation in the native city of Shanghai continued today, but quiet prevailed within the international settlement and the French concession area, the Navy Department was advised in a brief report from Admiral Williams, commanding American naval forces in Chinese waters.

WARSHIPS ON MOVE

Several attempts to enter the concessions were made by Chinese individuals and small mobs, the Admiral said, but these were repulsed without difficulty by the border sentries and patrols.

The destroyer William B. Preston has been ordered to leave Shanghai tomorrow for Chefoo. The movement was directed by Admiral Williams, acting in response to a request received by him from the American Consul at Chefoo. The destroyer Pillsbury was reported to be on its way today up the Yangtse River, under orders to evacuate missionaries at Nantungchow and neighboring places.

A message from American Consul Alexander G. Swaney at Tsinan, capital of Shantung Province, said evacuation of Americans from southern Shantung was progressing satisfactorily despite bad railway transportation.

DANGER IN SHANTUNG

Retreat of the Northern forces before the advancing Cantonese has brought southern Shantung into the war area. The Consulate was endeavoring to withdraw [illegible] Americans at Hwaiyuan, in Anhwei Province.

"Although there is no pronounced anti-foreign feeling in Tsinan, every precaution is being taken for the safety and protection of Americans," the Consul said.

Tsinan is in northern Shantung, which is still in the control of Northern Chinese troops.

Minister MacMurray advised the State Department that he had warned Americans in northern Honan Province, south of the Yellow River, to withdraw.

Consul-General Gauss reported that the Standard Oil Company at Shanghai had informed him "that an American by the name of Camm is safe on an American gunboat at Wuhu."

Five Navy Hospital Men Leave Chelsea for China

Five men of the Navy Hospital Corps were en route today from the Chelsea Naval Hospital to Philadelphia, where they will report to the commanding officer of the Sixth Regiment Marines for service in China.

U. S. MARINE FLIERS ATTACKED IN NICARAGUA

Washington, March 29 (A.P.).—An road to Richmond and New Orleans, attack by Liberals on an American Marine Corps airplane was reported to the Navy Department today by Rear Admiral Latimer, commanding forces in Nicaragua.

The admiral said a force estimated at 200 men opened fire yesterday with rifles and machine guns on an airplane piloted by Captain H. D. Campbell, who, with Lieutenant F. H. Lamson-Scribner, as observer, was making an air reconnaissance about nine miles east of Leon.

At the time of the attack the plane was flying at about 1,500 feet. It was struck twelve times by bullets. Lieutenant Lamson-Scribner returned the fire with his machine guns. No estimate as to the casualties on the ground was given.

Captain Campbell was appointed to the Marine Corps in 1917 from Vermont.

Jap Commander of Nanking Guard Tries Suicide

Shanghai, March 29 (A.P.).—Lieutenant Kamao Araki, who commanded the guard of eleven bluejackets at the Japanese Consulate at Nanking at the time of the outrages there last week, attempted suicide aboard the Japanese flagship Tone today. He is in a serious condition.

Araki arrived from Nanking to report to the commander-in-chief of the Japanese squadron. After the interview he tried to take his life.

(Under the ancient Samurai code of honor, officers who felt they had failed in carrying out duties entrusted to them, committed suicide.)

284 MORE U. S. REFUGEES IN SHANGHAI

Shanghai, March 29 (A.P.).—Removal of American citizens from the section of Central China held by the Nationalists now has been extended to the districts threatened by the Nationalist advance.

Steamer Sulwo, with a normal capacity of only 25 first-class passengers, arrived from Hankow today with 285 refugees, all but one of whom are Americans. The majority were members of the Scandinavian-American missions from the interior near Hankow.

The Americans remaining in Hankow on Sunday, the refugees report, numbered 139. Of these 46 were missionaries and members of their families. Of the entire 139 there were 30 women and 17 children.

Consul John K. Davis and Vice-Consul J. Hall Paxton are the only Americans remaining at Nanking. They are safe aboard Rear-Admiral Hough's flagship, the Isabel.

MARINES OFF FOR WEST TO GO TO CHINA

Washington, March 29 (I.N.S.).—The throb of farewells, the rumble of troop trains and the cheers for departing fighting men brought back a touch of the stirring times of the World War today as the marines started for China.

The 1,560 "leathernecks" ordered to Shanghai were leaving from Philadelphia, Quantico, Va., and Paris Island, S. C., in seven troop trains.

Setting out in fan-like order over a half dozen railroads, the troop trains will pass through nearly every western section of the country in their long rail trip to San Diego.

With the transport Henderson steaming at full speed from Corinto, it is probable that the whole marine contingent will be off for the Orient next Monday.

Details of the overland troop movements were announced today as follows:

From Quantico, Va.—One train, leaving today, via Southern Rail—thence through Houston, Tex., to San Diego. Another train, leaving tomorrow, via Atlanta, Montgomery, New Orleans, El Paso and Los Angeles.

From Philadelphia—Four trains leaving tomorrow (1) via Pennsylvania railroad to St. Louis, and thence via Fort Worth and El Paso; (2) Via Baltimore & Ohio railroad to St. Louis, thence via Kansas City, Pueblo, and Salt Lake City. (3) Via Reading railroad to Bethlehem, Buffalo, thence Nickel Plate to St. Louis and thence via Wichita, Kan., to Los Angeles. (4) Via Reading railroad, Buffalo, thence Nickel Plate to St. Louis, thence via San Antonio.

From Paris Island, S. C., one train tomorrow, via Augusta, Atlanta, Memphis, Amarillo, Tex., to destination.

U. S. and Britain Plan Action on Nanking Attack

London, March 29 (A.P.)—Reuter's Shanghai correspondent understands that official American and British reports on the Nanking incident now are under consideration in Washington and London, after which there will be an exchange of views and a decision as to the question of joint action.

U. S. SHIPS, IN REFUGEE HUNT, FIRED UPON

Shanghai, March 29 (I.N.S.).—United States warships are scurrying up and down the Yangtse River, often under fire, to clear the Yangtse valley of Americans before the gathering storm of anti-foreignism breaks into fury.

Efforts are being made to complete the evacuation of Hankow, one of the danger points. According to official reports there were twenty-six American men, women and children, and 113 mission workers at Hankow on Sunday. Last week 324 Americans were evacuated from Hankow.

The steamship Sulwo has arrived at Shanghai, bringing 284 Americans and one other refugee from Hankow, Nanking and other Yangtse ports.

The steamers Whangpoo and Tatung are expected this afternoon with other refugees. Escorted by the U. S. S. Paul Jones.

Japanese Consul General Morika, just arrived from Nanking, declared armed women led the Nationalists in what were evidently premeditated outrages.

Morika scored the Nationalist leaders for their attempt to shift responsibility upon the northern troops.

He said his life had been saved by his wife, who threw herself in front of his bed, in which he was lying ill, when Nationalist soldiers broke in and levelled their rifles at him.

R. I. BOY UNDER FIRE IN CHINA PICKS OFF 7

Shanghai, March 29 (A.P.)—John D. Wilson, son of E. L. Wilson, general manager of the Rumford Chemical Works, Rumford, R. I., shared the perils of Henry O. Warren of Olin, N. C., and Dennie D. Taylor of Lincoln, Cal., as they signalled to the warships in the Yangtse during the attack on Socony Hill, Nanking.

When the United States destroyer Noa arrived here today from Wuhu, where it was relieved by the destroyer Stewart, Wilson, who stands six feet one inch, modestly told of his adventures in company with the two men of the William B. Preston and others of the landing party. He said Wednesday night they kept vigil on Socony Hill, but only on Thursday did they have an intimation of the hostility of the Chinese soldiers.

"A machine gun on a hill 200 yards away," he said, "fired on our position, and we ducked. Word came that looting had begun. Then we saw the refugees coming, with Consul Davis at the head with the Stars and Stripes.

"Four others and I walked a short distance from Socony House for chow. Returning, we were stopped by Nationalist troops. Our arms had been taken away on Mr. Davis' orders. The soldiers demanded money. One little devil stuck a rifle to my ribs and I thought the end had come. I gave the leader all the money I had. He kept the others from bothering me.

"The soldiers then began looting Socony House and made a clean job. We were still unarmed. We could have cleaned them out with our pistols.

"When the consul ordered us to resume our arms, we returned the fire, and I know I picked off seven. Then, on Mr. Davis' orders, we gave the 'begin firing' signal from the verandah and roof, and soon the shells from the warships came down."

Hung in Quick Time

London, March 29 (IN.S.)—James Stratton, 26-year-old laborer, was hanged today at Pentonville Prison for the murder of his sweetheart, Daisy Mays, a stenographer, in an underground railway train just 37 days ago.

BULLETINS FROM CHINA

Washington, March 29 (A.P.).—American forces in China will not be merged with the forces of other great powers.

President Coolidge considers the United States has its own commander in the field so that independence of action on the part of the American military groups can be maintained. The President feels the American forces will co-operate with the troops of other powers.

Shanghai, March 29 (Universal Cable).—The American Catholic Mission at Patchau, in Southern Kwang Tung, has been looted by rioters and the fathers of the mission have fled to Cachow.

Shanghai, March 29 (I.N.S.).—General Chang Kai Shek, commander-in-chief of the Cantonese army, visited Admiral Williams, commander of the United States war craft in Chinese waters, today on board the admiral's flagship, the armored cruiser Pittsburgh.

Shanghai, March 29 (A.P.).—Withdrawal of the British warships from Changsha, on the Siang-Kiang in Hunan province, was demanded by a Chinese commissioner today, following a slight encounter. The commissioner demanded that British sailors be turned over, to enable the Chinese authorities to take "drastic action."

Peking, China, March 29 (A.P.)—Alarmed by events at Nanking, all the American members of the staff of the Peking Union Medical College have decided to leave for home immediately.

Tokio, March 29 (A.P.)—The Japanese Cabinet today is understood to have decided to refrain from using force in China, but to endeavor to secure a peaceful solution by diplomatic means.

JAPS ROBBED AT BAYONET POINT IN CONSULATE

Osaka, Japan, March 29 (A.P.).—A graphic description of the mistreatment of Japanese in Nanking, published by the Asahi Shimbun in a two-page dispatch from that city, has caused a sensation here.

The Asahi correspondent relates that last Thursday morning he was awakened by bullets pattering through the window panes of his room in the Horai-Kwan Hotel in Nanking. Shortly afterward more than forty Chinese soldiers invaded the hotel and robbed him of his belongings.

The looters tried to snatch a ring from the hand of a maid in the hotel, the dispatch continues, but found it tight, so they tried to cut off the finger. They threatened to shoot all Japanese guests of the hotel, but were restrained when a superior officer arrived.

The correspondent continues that he went to the Japanese consulate, where he saw more looting in which men and women were stripped of all their clothing.

More than 100 Chinese soldiers swarmed into the consulate and attacked the staff with bayonets and rifle butts, demanding money. When told there was no money, it is asserted, they brutally wounded and finally killed Major Nemoto and threw the body out of a window.

COURT REFUSES NEW TRIAL ON 'CONFESSION'

William Haggerty, whom Thomas Lynch and Harold ("Baby Face") Smith tried to save from State Prison as they saved William Taylor of Quincy, was today denied a new trial and he must serve his sentence of 12 to 20 years.

The convicts, Lynch and Smith, who confessed to the crime for which Taylor was imprisoned and thereby won him his freedom, made statements exonerating Haggerty from participation in another robbery.

They swore that Alfred Michaud and not Haggerty was with them in the robbery in question, and Michaud made a confession, absolving Haggerty. Judge Donahue refused to grant a new trial on the strength of these statements and the confession.

Judge Donahue was the presiding justice at the trial of Lynch, Haggerty, Smith and Michaud. In this trial a jury found Lynch and Smith guilty of a series of robberies and found Haggerty was involved in one of these and Michaud in another.

The Quincy youth, Taylor, was serving a four-year term for a separate robbery when the other two convicts confessed. Judge Donahue granted him a new trial after a hearing and the District Attorney released him entirely by nolle prossing the charge.

ART EDITOR AND GRAY IN 6-YEAR LOVE FEUD

TRAGEDY BARES RIVALRY OVER MRS. SNYDER

New York, March 29 (A.P.)—A six-years' feud between Albert Snyder slain magazine art editor, and Henry Judd Gray, his accused slayer, over the affections of the former's wife, was the subject of investigation by police today.

Contrary to statements by Gray and Mrs. Ruth Snyder, also under indictment for her husband's murder, that Gray and Snyder never had met, Judge Nathan Leiberman confirmed reports that Snyder had consulted him several years ago on divorce plans.

Judge Leiberman also was quoted on a fight between Snyder and Gray which was said to have occurred in the Snyder home on June 14, 1924, when Snyder surprised Gray and his wife together.

The husband, an out-of-door enthusiast, is said to have admitted that he had "had a tough fight," despite the small stature of Gray, his corset salesman antagonist.

"I beat him within an inch of his life," Snyder is said to have described the battle, "and I knocked him out."

A reconciliation between Mr. and Mrs. Snyder was effected and the couple continued to live together with their nine-year-old daughter, Lorraine apparently a happy family.

Gray and Mrs. Snyder yesterday for the first time since their arrest inquired as to the other's welfare.

Mrs. Snyder asked the jail matron how Gray was bearing up under the strain of imprisonment, while in another cell, Gray, unaware of the woman's solicitude about him, inquired of his jailer whether Mrs. Snyder was well or if she brooded or seemed melancholy.

OFF TO JAIL GO 'VIRGIN MAN' CONVICTS

New York, March 29 (A.P.).—From the playhouse to the workhouse today went a literary man, William Francis Dugan, author of "The Virgin Man," and Mack Cohan, co-producer of his play, recently morally frowned upon by a squad of police censors, the district attorney and three special session judges.

After being fingerprinted, the two men left the Tombs in the prison van to begin ten days on Welfare Island. The conviction was on the charge of violating the statute against the production of "an immoral play."

A third man, Alfred Kromberg, co-producer, also sentenced to ten days, was removed from the Tombs yesterday, in advance of the others, and taken to the City Hospital on Welfare Island, suffering from an infection of the ear.

The three, who were fined $250 each, were the first workhouse victims of the recent crusade to "clean up" Broadway. The play, which was raided and then played for an extensive run, concerned the emotional life of a young college man who finds himself bashfully set amidst the wiles of three older women.

New York, March 29 (I.N.S.).—The cast, author and producers of the play "Sex" to the number of twenty-six, went on trial today before a jury charged with participating in the presentation of an immoral play.

"Sex," which tells the story of a woman who fell in love with a society leader's son while following her sailor sweetheart around the world, was written by Mae West, also the star of the cast.

Taming of the Shrew ~ A Husband Rages ~ Shakespeare's Famous Comedy

"Will my daughter prove a good musician? Iron will hold her, but never flutes."

Petruchio went to Kate's father, and obtained permission to marry her. Hortensio, Bianca's suitor, who had disguised himself as a musician to enter the house, was struck by angry Kate.

"Where two raging fires do meet together; they Do consume the thing that feeds their fury."

Kate slapped Petruchio's face when he proposed, but the undaunted suitor told her father she had agreed to marriage and had set the date. Petruchio meant to break her temper.

"The mad-brained bridegroom took him such A cuff; that down fell priest and book."

Petruchio's plan was to be more ill-tempered than Kate. He dressed for the wedding in the worst cast-off garments he could find, and enlivened the ceremony by striking the priest.

"I will be master of what is my own; She is my goods, my chattels!"

Kate refused to budge after the ceremony, so Petruchio dragged her off forcibly, brandishing his sword and yelling madly that he was set upon by bandits and defying everybody.

COUPLE WED IN CHURCH AT MIDNIGHT

a hundred workmen are employed in rushing the edifice through to completion, but scaffolding, building materials and tools are scattered about everywhere in the great structure.

A few minutes after midnight, a small party of men and women threaded their way through the main into the structure. Night watchmen recognized the Rev. William H. Mitchell, pastor of the church, as one of the members of the party so they were permitted to pass. The interior of the church was spooky in the dim light, but the party, carefully avoiding paint pots, plaster vats and other pitfalls, made their way to the front of the church. An immense scaffolding occupies what will later be the altar.

Under this scaffolding the party halted and a moment later the Rev. Mr. Mitchell pronounced the words that made the wealthy candy man and his former employe man and wife. Other members of the party were Cobb's father and a daughter by a former marriage. As silently as they had entered the place the party left, and a short time later the bride and bridegroom were on their way to the railroad station.

Young Cobb, according to members of his family, arranged the unusual wedding to avoid the fuss and frills of a church wedding. Also he was anxious to take part in the first function to be staged in the new Wesley church. In both instances he was successful.

The Cobbs, father and son, are prominently identified with the business life of Worcester. The son for some time past has been engaged in the candy business and Miss Armitage was one of his employes.

CITE CAMBRIDGE LIGHT PROFITS IN RATE QUIZ

Hearings on petitions of customers and the Mayor of Cambridge for a reduction in Cambridge Electric Light Company's rates opened today before the Public Utilities Commission, with the contention of City Councillor [illegible] P. Leahy that a decrease from eight to five cents a kilowatt hour could be ordered without injustice to stockholders of the company.

In the 41 years of its existence, Leahy declared, the company has declared dividends ranging from 6 to 23 per cent., the second most prosperous company in the State.

"Conditions for several years have been intolerable," he said. "Only lack of sufficient funds prevented action against the company sooner.

"I am prepared to present a table which will show the date upon which every dividend was paid, the amount of each quarterly, regular and extra dividend of the past forty-one years. These dividends aggregate more than $4,000,000.

"Compare this with the fifteen issues of stock during forty-one years and then consider the fact that the aggregate amount paid into the company in these fifteen issues was only $2,338,000.

"Is this fair to residents of Cambridge? I consider it the most unfair proposition in the history of the State."

The company was represented by Attorney Robert P. Dodge.

Married Sixty-two Years

Springfield, March 29 (A.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. Ira M. White of this city will celebrate the 62d anniversary of their marriage tomorrow. He is 88 and Mrs. White a year younger. Both are of colonial ancestry and Mr. White is a Civil War veteran.

Woman Legislator Walks 18 Miles in Four Hours

Concord, N. H., March 29 (A.P.). —Dr. Zatae Straw of Manchester, a member of the State House of Representatives, walked eighteen miles from her home to this city today to attend the legislative session. Dr. Straw, who is middle-aged, covered the distance in four hours. She walked because she wanted the exercise and enjoyed it, she said.

FAVOR 2-CENT GASOLINE TAX

sedes a report made previously by the Committee on Taxation, which favored the 3-cent gasoline tax. Of the three cents, two cents were to go to the State and the other cent be distributed among cities and towns. The added cent was put on, legislators frankly admitted, to attract votes for the bill when the measure came up for a final decision in the House and Senate.

The bill, besides providing for a gasoline tax, would lower the automobile registration fee to $3.

The additional cent would bring Boston in excess of $1,000,000 a year and all cities and towns more than $4,000,000. For this reason considerable opposition to any amendment of the bill is expected when the measure comes up for debate.

SMITH VS. COOLIDGE AS BORAH SEES IT

Syracuse, N. Y., March 29 (I.N.S.) —Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York against President Calvin Coolidge as the presidential lineup in 1928 was forecast here today by Senator William E. Borah.

DOG SHOT AFTER BITING THREE REVERE BOYS

boys bitten were treated by a near by physician.

A St. Bernard dog caused excitement in Lynn at about the same time when he leaped on Frank Brown, a pedestrian, and after knocking him to the street clawed his face. Brown was taken to the Lynn hospital where it was found he had received a fractured leg when the dog knocked him to the ground. Police held the dog and are trying to locate his owner.

Dogs Bite 4 in Newton; Animals Ordered Chained

With four persons already bitten by dogs known to be suffering with the rabies, a mad dog scare has the Newtons in a fever of excitement.

The Board of Aldermen, called into special session as a result of the scare, unanimously adopted a resolution ordering all dogs to be leashed for a period of thirty days. While the aldermen were in session discussing the situation, another child was bitten by a dog believed to be suffering from rabies.

The latest victim is William Brown, son of Mrs. K. C. Brown of No. 544 Ward street, Newton centre.

For several weeks past the danger of rabies has been spreading. More than a dozen people have been bitten and in every case where it was possible, the head of the dog involved, has been sent to a laboratory for examination. Four of these heads have shown the dogs to be infected and the four human victims are now being treated with the Pasteur serum.

City Veterinarian C. A. Boutelle finally became so alarmed that he had the special meeting of the Board of Aldermen called today.

The leash order applied to dogs of high as well as low degree. Dogs found running at large will be captured and killed.

It is believed that many dogs have been bitten by infected animals and that, as a result, the prevalence of the dread disease is general.

GIRL CHARGES 2 'JAILED' HER

Providence, to support her story, the nineteen-year-old Cambridge girl told of attending a school conducted in Bromfield street by the Austins.

HER NAME IN 'ELECTRICS.'

"They told 17 of us girls, all candidates for the Butterfly Review, they had a contract for 64 weeks in vaudeville and had bought big busses in which we were to travel," Miss Moore testified.

"I was to be the star and they said my name would go in electric lights on Broadway. They told me I had talent and they suggested I could invest some money in the company. I got $1,000 from a man friend, and gave it to them.

"But nothing materialized. We went on practicing and practicing. Then I complained and they threatened to have me put in Sherborn. I was on probation for having been a stubborn child but I went to the police just the same.

"The night before the police got around to arrest the Austins, I was called for by the Cambridge authorities and put in the reformatory because I was said to have violated my probation. Yet the probation officer said in court I was all right. It is a mystery to me."

STAR DREAM FADES.

"Did you really believe you could break right in on Broadway as a feature star?" asked counsel for the Austins.

"I know there were plenty of stars on Broadway without real talent, and I had faith in myself," replied the girl.

A representative of a vaudeville testified the "Butterflies" had not been given a booking, and other witnesses testified buses for travel were neither bought nor registered with the Motor Vehicles Bureau.

Police Inspector Frank Haggerty explained to Judge Parmenter he is making an inquiry into the girl's being sent to Sherborn for alleged violation of probation.

HAIRDRESSER OUT OF WORK TAKES POISON

Despondency over the loss of employment led Miss Hazel Wright, 23-year-old hairdresser, to attempt to end her life with two poison tablets.

Although she had been placed on the danger list shortly after being taken from her room in St. Botolph street, Back Bay, City Hospital physicians said today that she had recovered quickly from the poison's first effects and would probably be discharged tomorrow.

G. I. ALDEN OF WORCESTER LEFT $3,002,375 TO HEIRS

Worcester, March 29 (A.P.)—George I. Alden, former head of the Norton Company, according to a trustees' inventory filed today in probate court, left personal property valued at $3,002,375.94 in trust for Leah Alden and others.

The property consists of 30,011 shares of Nortoon Company stock. The trustees are Edward T. Estey, Paul B. Morgan, J. Herbert Johnson and Clare L. Alden.

REOPEN FIGHT ON WHARFAGE CHARGES

Washington, March 29 (I.N.S.).—At the resumption of hearings today before the Interstate Commerce Commission relating to charges for wharfage, handling and storage at Atlantic and Gulf ports, a move was made by the port authority of New York and the American Warehousemens' Association to have certain of the issues involved defined.

Boston was represented at the hearing by the Maritime Association & Transportation Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, the Grain & Flour Exchange and leading shippers.

Motions were submitted asking the commission to exclude New York floatage and lighterage from the returns the railroads made to the questions asked by the commission at the request of the Shipping Board.

Oppostion was voice dby Charles C. McChord, former chairman of the commission, representing Philadelphia interests, and James W. Carmalt, representing Baltimore interests, both these cities are about to file formal complaints, alleging the free lighterage and floatage accorded at New York unduly prejudices them.

A motion to make these complaints a part of the present proceeding was submitted by Charles E. Cottrell, representing the warehousemen's organization.

"Peaches" Gets New Skin to Hide Acid Scar

New York, March 29.—Before embarking on her theatrical career, "Peaches" Browning, who recently lost her separation suit against her millionaire husband, Edward W. Browning, was scheduled to undergo today the first of a series of skin-grafting operations to remove scars of acid burns on her face suffered in a mysterious attack before her marriage. Next week she will go to Chicago for a theatrical engagement.

WOMAN HIT BY AUTO; IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Mrs. Ida Shester, 45, of Highland street, Revere, is in a critical condition suffering from serious injuries received today when she was struck by an automobile and hurled several feet.

The car was operated by D. Levine, according to the police. Levine drove her to her home where physicians say she is suffering from a fractured left leg and contusions of the face and head.

BANK BILL GOES TO SENATE AS FRAMED

The Legislative tangle over the trust company bill was ended, at least temporarily, today when Speaker of the House of Representatives John C. Hull ruled that the measure must go to the Senate in its present form, it having been neither passed nor rejected by the House.

This bill, however, now embodies nothing more than a provision for the Lexington Trust Company to establish a branch in Bedford. It was to this bi' that Governor Fuller had added an amendment which, if adopted, would have transferred all control over branch banking from the Legislature to the Board of Bank Incorporation.

When the House rejected this general amendment, only the Lexington Trust Company bill remained. If the Senate, to which it now goes, passes it, the bill will come back to the House for vote. Legislators expressed a belief it would never come back.

GIANT FOKKER IS PUT ON HUB MAIL RUN

The giant three-motor Fokker airplane of the Colonial Air Transport, pressed into service in the New York-Boston mail route when the single motor planes of the company were destroyed in a hangar fire, made its first mail run from New York to the Hub today.

The big plane took off from Hadley Field, New York, at 7 a. m. and arrived at the East Boston airport two hours and twenty-five minutes later.

It will continue to carry the mails until Saturday when a single-motor Stinson-Detroiter is expected to arrive.

The three-motor plane is equipped to carry ten passengers in addition to a heavy cargo of freight. The single seater planes were destroyed at New Brunswick, N. J. A large amount of government flying equipment was burned.

FEAR LYNN GIRL HELD BY GANG

Revere police today scoured the city for traces of Shirley Bazer, 19-year-old Lynn girl, whose mother believes she was enticed away from home by a gang of men and women drug addicts.

The girl left her home in Vine street, Lynn, Friday, telling her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bazer, she was going to spend some time with a Revere woman whose name she refused to reveal.

Investigating at the request of the Lynn authorities, Revere police declare they have discovered she was seen in company with a notorious crowd whose practices, they say, she probably is not aware of

According to the story told the police by her mother, the girl ,who is a pretty brunette was away for several days and returned Thursday. That night she was almost in delirium and the next day she left home again.

She is one of five daughters in the Bazer family. She is five feet eight inches tall, weighs 135 pounds and has dark, curly hair. When she left home she was wearing a sealskin coat with gray fur trimming, a black hat, black shoes and stockings.

Inspectors John Starkey and Dominic Church of the Revere police are leading the hunt for her.

KILLS SELF IN ESSEX HOTEL

A guest at the Essex Hotel in Atlantic avenue, who registered as F. L. Grottoff of Cranston street, Providence, ended his life by shooting himself through the head while seated in his room at the hotel today.

A note the man left on the bureau asked the authorities to notify relatives in Cambridge.

The man about 55 years o age, carried a passport to Lithuania, and police believe he had planned to go abroad. Another guest heard a shot shortly after 8 o'clock. Hotel employes investigated and found Grottoff with a bullet hole through the head.

The man had obtained the room Monday evening. The bed had not been slept in and the body was fully clothed.

HOW ADVERTISING SAVED THE PINEAPPLE INDUSTRY

The great pineapple industry of Hawaii was saved and stabilized by printers' ink, members of the Boston Advertising club were told today by Charles R. Fraser, former president of the Advertising Club of Honolulu. The pineapples that could not be sliced and canned were formerly destroyed, wasting thousands of tons of good fruit each year. Through advertising the world was told crushed pineapple had many uses. A demand was created and the industry was placed on its feet.

Grosvenor De W. Marcy, president of Sampson & Murdock described the growth of the city directories in Boston, from the first edition in 1789, in which the residents were rated in the order of their estimated importance in the community.

WOULD ANSWER MAYOR ON RADIO ABOUT L. I. HOSPITAL

City Councillor John F. Dowd of Roxbury today addressed a letter to Station WEEI asking that some city councilman be permitted to reply by radio to statements about the proposed $1,000,000 Long Island Hospital appropriation which Mayor Nichols spoke about on the air ten days ago. Dowd stated that one of the ten councillors who voted against the Mayor's request for the appropriation would welcome the chance to tell the public of Boston the reasons for voting adversely.

18 MILLION HUB BRIDGE LOSES

The proposed $18,000,000 25-cent toll bridge or tunnel to East Boston was reported unfavorably today in the House by the committee on ways and means.

The committee recommended the measure be referred to the next legislative session.

LOMASNEY IN CLASH ON 'L' CONTROL BILL

Representative Martin Lomasney and Henry I. Harriman, chairman of the metropolitan planning division, today clashed on the latter's advocacy of extending public control over the Elevated for twenty-five years, at a hearing before the joint committee on ways and means at the State House.

But two other speakers in addition to Harriman were in favor of the 25-year bill. They were former Representative George L. Richards of Malden and Representative George A. Gilman of Boston.

Gilman, spokesman for the majority report of the committee on street railways and metropolitan affairs, explained the bill, under which an annual saving of $1,043,910 was claimed, through a reduction of common stock dividend from 6 to 5½ per cent., and the abolishment of 7 and 8 per cent. preferred stockholders through an exchange for 4½ forty-year debenture bonds, tax free, guaranteed by the State.

The first tilt between Lomasney and Harriman came over the question of whether the road, under the present act, is privately or publicly controlled.

"Who elects the company's board of directors?" Lomasney asked.

"The stockholders," replied Harriman.

"Then the stockholders control the road, for they can veto proposed improvements by the public trustees," contended Lomasney.

Pinned down by Lomasney, Harriman finally admitted that the power of veto given the directors was of paramount importance. Lomasney wasn't satisfied until he had got the planning chairman to further admit that it was of first inmportance.

Lomasney also asked Young what he thought of the right of the directors to veto action of the trustees. Young replied that that feature could be taken care of in a re-drafted bill. He admitted that the Elevated is "sitting pretty."

"Yes," shot back Lomasney, "they paid for a good thing and they got it."

Senator William F. Johnson and Representative Eliot Wadsworth, both of Boston, favored returning the road to private ownership.

'LISTENS IN' ON ROBBERY

Two robbers with automatic pistols today held up the night man at the Maugus Garage, Wellesley Hills, and robbed the cash register of $3.

A telephone operator listened in on the robbery through a telephone that the garage manager, Wyman Bond of Cochituate, knocked over, but the few words that she heard did not give her a hint that a hold-up was in progress.

Two months ago Bond frightened thugs away when he fired at two youths who were sneaking into the garage.

The robbers entered the garage boldly this time, first asking for a gasoline can and a supply of gas. Then they suddenly drew pistols and backed Bond into a washroom.

As he backed away he knocked over the telephone. The robbers completed their work and escaped in an automobile

Holden Woman Is 104 Today; Enjoys Best of Health

Holden, March 29 (A.P.).—Mrs. Almira Edson (Ballou) Titus, Holden's oldest resident, is observing her 104th birthday in her home on Maple street today.

Mrs. Titus was born in Hartland, Vermont, March 29, 1823. She came to Holden at the age of 20 as the bride of John Titus. She enjoys good health for a person of her age. She is a member of the Congregational church.

Mrs. Titus comes of a long-lived family. A brother, John Quincy Titus, a "forty-niner," is 100 years old. Another sister lived for 99 years. Their father was almost 90 when he died.

MRS. EDWARDS BREAKS LEG

Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards, wife of General Edwards of YD fame, sustained a broken leg when knocked down by her pet dog while playing with it in the garden of her country home "Dunroving," in Westwood.

It is believed the injury will confine her to her home for several months. The leg was broken just below the knee.

Mrs. Edwards has been very active in visiting hospitals to provide comforts and entertainments for ex-service men and they will miss her calls.

McLaughlin Blames N. Y. Police for Forcing "Confession" with objections in his battle for the life of the alleged carbarn robber, who may have the jury's verdict before another dawn.

With McLaughlin's stepping down from the stand after six hours of testimony, nearly five of which were in cross-examination, the defense rested.

Rebuttal testimony took until 3:20 P. M., when all evidence in the case had been put in. Judge Dubuque set arguments for tomorrow, with the practical certainty that the case would be given to the jury sometime in the afternoon.

"How much of the split did you say they gave your brother?" Bushnell asked when he resumed cross-examination. McLaughlin replied that it was $150.

Q.—Did you see that amount given? A.—I saw Devereaux count it out when he made the split.

Q.—Now, weren't you given that $150 to give to your brother when you met at King's house afterwards? A.—No.

Q.—And instead of giving it to your brother, didn't you take it to New York with you? A.—No.

Q.—How much money did you take to New York with you? A.—$240.

Q.—Was anything said about paying the tipster who suggested going to the carbarn to rob it? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who said anything about that? A.—Devereaux.

Q.—When? A.—On Monday, October 5.

Q.—What did he say? A.—He said he was going to give the tipster $70 and Heinlein was going to give the tipster $50.

Q.—And how much did you say they gave you? A.—$240.

Q.—And how much did Devereaux and Heinlein receive? A.—They each got $330.

Q.—And if they gave the tipster $50 each, it would leave them $280? A.—Yes.

GOT ONLY $40 LESS.

Q.—And when you got $240 you got only $40 less than Heinlein and Devereaux who went out there? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was there any discussion before they went out to the carbarn that night as to what each man was assigned to do? A.—No.

Q.—Wasn't it agreed that you and Heinlein and Devereaux were to go in and King was to stay outside? A.—No.

Q.—Do you mean to tell this jury that you were going out there and pull that job in a haphazard way without telling each man what he was to do? A.—Yes.

Q.—I will read from the transcript of your statement to the New York detectives; didn't you tell them that you and Devereaux and Heinlein were to go in and King was to stay outside? A.—No.

Q.—Were those words put in your mouth by these brutal detectives from New York. A.—It may have been suggested.

Q.—How did Donahue and Martin and Carey suggest it? A.—Well, I told them that I read it in the papers.

Q.—When you claim that you were left behind and the others went in a taxi, what did you tell the New York police about that? A.—Inspector Martin said: "Oh, I suppose you didn't have enough money; that is why you didn't go to the carbarn with them?" I said: "No, it was because I had a fight with Devereaux."

Q.—Didn't you go out there to get the lay of the land? A.—No, I went out there to inquire about a pair of rubbers that I left on a stock car which I piloted while I was a conductor on the Boston Elevated.

Q.—Whom did you see when you inquired about your rubbers. A.—I don't remember now.

Q.—Did you have a pretty good idea of the layout there—where the money could be obtained—when they talked about the robbery plans in October. A.—Yes, I had a fair idea.

Q.—Where was the money? A.—In the receiver's cage.

Q.—How did you know where the receiver's cage was? A.—Because I had to go to the office when I inquired about my rubbers.

Q.—Didn't you tell the New York police you were out to the carbarn as late as 1924? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't Devereaux tell you he had killed a man? A.—He said he had shot a man.

Q.—When did you first learn that Ferneau was killed? A.—In November.

Q.—How? A.—By reading an old newspaper that I found in a friend's room.

Q.—Were you surprised when you learned that your brother was in on it? A.—Yes, I was.

Q.—Do you now wish to make any more corrections of any errors or untruths in your testimony, similar to that change of date when you last went to the Waltham carbarn? A.—No.

Q.—Then you will have us understand that all you have testified to here is the truth? A.—Yes.

McLaughlin was excused and Atty. Douglas announced that the defense rested. District Attorney Bushnell immediately called Inspector Cunningham of the New York police in rebuttal. He denied that he had taken any notes of a statement by McLaughlin and had been ordered by Captain Carey to destroy them. The inspector also declared he observed no rough treatment of McLaughlin.

In rebuttal testimony, Captain Arthur A. Carey and Inspectors Stephen Donahue and Thomas J. Martin of the New York police all denied that they had coerced McLaughlin into making a confession or statement, or had used violence on him in any way.

Mrs. Catherine Bennett testified that she had known McLaughlin for two years, but denied that he had been in her house on the murder night.

Although the robbery did not occur until after 1 a. m., she said that she was awakened by a noise at midnight and saw Devereaux, and Devereaux alone, in her kitchen.

GERMAN ARRIVES WITH SECRET INFLUENZA 'CURE'

Hans Klein, director of the Landesproducten Bank og Munich, arrived today on the Hamburg-Amerika liner Westphalia from Bremen with a secret formula for a whisky substitute to be used in the treatment of tuberculosis and influenza. He bore letters of introduction to Vice-President Dawes, Secretary Hoover and Senator Borah. He said the product will come within the limits of the prohibition law.

A shipment of 3400 Hartz Mountain canaries, 2000 parrokeets, and 20 swans were consigned to a New York firm. There were 58 first class, and 27 cabin passengers who disembarked here.

FIND DEAD POSTMASTER'S ACCOUNTS $600 SHORT

The accounts of Postmaster Reuben C. Munsell, postmaster at West Hartford, Vt., who committed suicide, were found to be $600 short, Chief Postal Inspector Park D. Colvin announced today. Munsell, who was 64 years of age, and had been postmaster at West Hartford for 39 years, shot himself a few minutes after a postoffice inspector unexpectedly arrived in West Hartford. The books were audited and the shortage was discovered immediately following Munsell's death.

BAUER ORDERS GUARD AT LYNN TEACHER HEARING

Mayor Bauer today ordered a detail of 15 police officers to stand guard at City Hall tonight when Mrs. Bella Clifford, recently discharged from her teaching position in Lynn schools, is given a hearing.

A number of labor and women's organizations planned to stage a demonstration in Mrs. Clifford's favor. Mayor Bauer has ordered the police to arrest the first man or woman who starts a demonstration.

BOY WITH MATCHES SETS COUCH ON FIRE

Harry Woodcoff, three-year-old son of Mrs. Rebecca Woodcoff, of No. 23 Garfield street, Revere, was playing with matches at his home today when he set fire to a couch. The child's mother, smelling smoke, found him unconscious on the burning couch. The boy was rushed to a doctor's office, while Revere firemen extinguished the fire. The physician revived the child, who had been overcome by smoke.

LOVE LEADS BOY TO TRY SUICIDE

Whitman, March 28.—Because his mother refused to give her consent to his marriage, William Hammond, nineteen, endeavored to commit suicide by swallowing poison. He will recover.

Several days ago Hammond asked his mother to sign his marriage intentions to wed Miss Edna H. Bartholdson, nineteen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Algot Bartholdson of Abington. The mother thought him too young and refused.

While walking along the street young Hammond drew the vial of iodine from his pocket and swallowed the contents. He was treated by a doctor.

The artist's arms were jolted throughout by shoves and pushes in the form of objections by James A. Reed, United States Senator from Missouri, chief of Ford counsel.

"Oh, I object to that," he interrupted as Sapiro was detailing his appearances before the Legislatures of Texas, South Carolina, Georgia, Minnesota, Kentucky and Illinois. "There is no allegation here that the witness' reputation as a lobbyist was damaged."

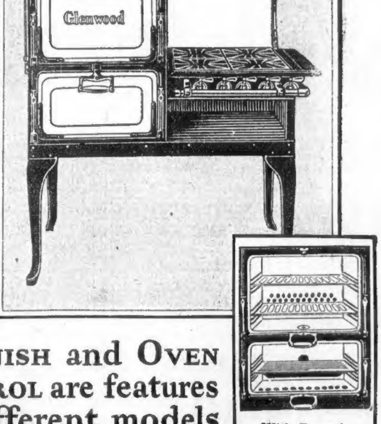
Equipped with Glenwood ROBERTSHAW Heat Control

This automatic device takes all the old guess-work out of baking and oven cooking.



With Enamel RUST PROOF Oven Linings

ENAMEL FINISH and OVEN HEAT CONTROL are features of many different models of Glenwood Gas Ranges

THE beautiful enameling of Glenwood Gas Ranges is not just an outside finish. The whole interior of both the baking oven and broiler is made smooth and rust-proof in the same way, so that it is just as easy to keep clean with a damp cloth as the outside of the range.

Glenwood Robertshaw Oven Heat Control is another feature which is now found not only on the largest and most expensive models but on many of the smaller Glenwoods as well. This automatic control of the oven heat makes success a certainty for everything you bake.

Glenwood Gas Ranges, finished in either full or semi enamel, are now widely used by architects to make homelike kitchens in the new houses that they build and offer for sale. Your architect or builder can get any size or style you may prefer. Make sure it is a Glenwood.

CARUSO WIDOW LOSES SUIT ON GUARDIANSHIP

Trenton, N. J., March 29 (A.P.)—Chancellor Walker, sitting as ordinary of the prerogative court, today denied the petition of Mrs. Dorothy Benjamin Caruso Ingram of New York, widow of Enrico Caruso, the famous tenor, for appointment as general guardian of her seven-year-old daughter, Gloria.

At the same time, however, the court gave Mrs. Ingram elave to apply for appointment as special guard.

Appointment of a guardian was sought to institute proceedings for a rebate from the Federal government for an alleged excess payment of income taxes. Some $27,000 was said to be involved.

"The power to appoint a guardian for a non-resident infant exists only in cases where such infant has property situated here," it was pointed out by the court. "That power is only won to appoint a special guardian to protect that property."

Other litigation in which Mrs. Ingram sought a portion of royalty income due the little girl from phonograph records of her father is still pending before the court.

FOX TELLS OF BENEFITS OF MOVIES IN EDUCATION

Motion pictures with the voice of the professor reproduced will soon be part of the educational system in leading universities of the country according to a prediction made by William Fox, moving picture magnate, in a lecture to students of the Harvard School of Business Administration today.

Citing the film, "Over the Hill," Mr. Fox declared than an investigation of a number of poorhouses throughout the country showed that 35 per cent. of the inmates had been reclaimed two years after the picture had its first showing.

NINE CASES OF TYPHOID IN LOWELL DISTRICT

Nine cases of typhoid fever in Billerica and Lowell were reported today at the office of the State commissioner of public health. All affected by the disease took unpasteurized milk from a farm in Billerica, either directly or through another distributor. The carrier, suspected of being a woman who had the disease some years ago, was found to react negatively to tests.

THREATENS TO MARCH JOBLESS ON CITY HALL

Threats to marshal the unemployed of the South End and Roxbury and march them on City Hall, early next week, were made today by Councilman Michael J. Ward of Roxbury.

The angry councilman made the threats to Secretary Condon, of Mayor Nichols' staff, during an argument over the alleged failure of the mayor to appoint certain assistant assessors.

The administration was charged, by Councilman Ward, with failing to take due notice of the unemployment situation.

"I intend to marshal the unemployed in my district in the Municipal Building at Shawmut avenue and West Brookline street, South End, early next week and march them to City Hall and demand that Mayor Nichols put them to work cleaning the streets," said Ward.

"This is the only way to awaken Mayor Nichols to the fact that men are starving in Boston, men with families who have been thrown out of employment through no fault of their own, and then perhaps he may take measures to put them to work.

"The streets of Roxbury are in a deplorable condition. So are the back yards of the poor people. The unemployed could be used cleaning these thoroughfares and ridding these back yards of rubbish."

BETTY ALDEN'S SOCIETY COMMENT

Miss Eliza Bacon to Marry Hugh Deane McKinnon at Brookline Home of Her Parents, April 18

A QUIET CEREMONIAL CELEBRATED in her own home, without churchly pomp and pageantry, is the sort at which Miss Eliza Bacon, daughter of the Francis W. Bacons of Brookline, elects to exchange marriage vows with Hugh Deane McKinnon. She sets Monday, April 18, as the wedding day and for the hour, four in the afternoon. A company confined to only the two families and most intimate friends is bidden to the ceremonial itself, and the reception immediately following is scarcely larger, since both take place in the Addington road home of the Bacons.

FOR HER ATTENDANTS MISS BACON WILL have Mrs. Milton Baldridge (Doris Bryant) of New York, Miss Ellen Whitridge of Baltimore and Mrs. Philip Camp of Buffalo, the first named to be the matron of honor. The bride-elect, a girl of stately grace and of the blonde, blue-eyed type, should be exceedingly good to look at in bridal trappings She came out three or four years ago, and belongs to that lively feminine organization of social preference, the Junior League. Mr. McKinnon hails from the Windy City, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron R. McKinnon, and will take his bride to Pittsburgh to live.

THESE ARE HECTIC DAYS FOR THE VINCENT Club. With their "Varieties" due for the first presentation on any stage next Monday, the polishing-off process is well under way. Miss Elizabeth Hubbard, petite and chic, is one of the buds of the season who by grace of family and talents is among the fifty girls taken into the sacred fold this year. She is a member of the hardworking chorus, that flits spiritedly in and out of the melange just as a professional chorus would. Miss Hubbard is the sister of Mrs. T. Jefferson Newbold and of Gorham Hubbard, who piloted her very successful debut with much finish and eclat.

Boston Evening American Staff Photographer

MISS ELIZABETH HUBBARD

She is a member of the chorus that flits through the various "Vincent Varieties" with dash and perfection.

ALTHOUGH THERE'S A PERFECT FLUTTER of cards to this and that function of Lenten significance, none in the whole sheaf carries more pleasure to recipients than the Art Museum's invitations to the private view that inaugurates the Copley Society's Spring exhibition. On Tuesday week, April 5, all that social-artistic set that dotes on exhibitions and finds itself within the Society's and the Museum's invitation list will be out in force. There's a furore of interest for this exhibition, for Boston has more than a few artists and sculptors of renown whose works find favor with the mighty.

EXTREMELY INTERESTING, TOO, BUT TO AN almost entirely different set, is the exhibition coming later in the season at the Old State House. This will be of paramount concern to the sailor man, the amateur yachtsman, of whom there are scores local to this famous stretch of coastline. The modern rig of yachts, especially the "Marconi" and its evolution to modernity from the old lateen sort, will be shown in its every step. As the slender and tall Marconi rises on countless smart craft whose skippers rate in the smartest sets, there's sure to be a great interest. And by no means confined to the sterner sex. For many girls and young matrons are as adept at the wheel and tiller as are their brothers, cousins or sweethearts.

SPEAKING OF THE MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS, THAT CHARMING girl who is numbered among the prospective brides, Miss Marguerite Garceau, has found time even during the pleasant excitements of betrothal and trousseau gathering days to follow her artistic bent as a student at the Museum School And what's more, she has been so successful at design that a large textile concern has purchased some of her work. Miss Garceau is an extremely pretty girl, the sort to make a radiant bride. She came out three or so seasons ago and belongs to the Junior League.

STILL SAILING THE SUNLIT MEDITERRANEAN ON ONE OF those pleasurable cruises, the Frederick Page Royces and their two popular daughters, Miss Harriet and Miss Evelyn, plan not to turn their faces homeward until late April. They'll be sure to be back in ample season for some of the late Spring hunt meets, however, for both girls are intrepid riders, gracefully boyish in the saddle and trim riding togs.

BERMUDA IN THE SPRING travel itinerary of the smart set continues as a first place holder. To drop down to the coral isles for a week or so pleases ever so many travel-inclined folk; even to merely "week-end" there may be a near possibility. Advices from the islands say the pink oleanders bloom along the roadsides and the lily fields are white with blossoms. The Frederick J. Cottons and their daughter, Miss Jean Cotton, have been at the Princess, where the Henry Sturgis Grews also put up.

MRS. HERBERT C. PELL GETS PARIS DIVORCE

Paris, March 29 (A.P.)—The Paris courts have awarded a divorce to Matilda Bigelow Pell from Herbert Claiborne Pell. She charged her husband with violence. They were married in New York, November 3, 1915 and have one child.

Herbert C. Pell was chairman of the Democratic State Committee of New York from 1921 to 1925, and served one term in Congress. Herbert C. Pell, Sr., was the founder of Tuxedo Park.

SAYS TO HONOR BORAH IS SLAP AT COOLIDGE

Utica, N. Y., March 29 (A.P.).—A group of business men and Republicans have voiced opposition to the entertainment of Senator William E. Borah by the Utica Republican Club tonight. Senator Borah is to be the speaker at a proposed Lincoln Day dinner.

"For Republicans to honor Senator Borah for his obstructive policies would be nothing more or less than a direct slap in the face for President Coolidge," said Bradford H. Divine.

Pleasant surroundings count. If you are not satisfied with your room—there's a suitable one listed for you in today's Classified Columns. Classification 86.

RARE PLANTS FEATURE SPRING FLOWER SHOW

Visitors to Boston's $100,000 Spring flower show which opens in Horticultural Hall tomorrow, will see many rare and valuable plants for the first time.

These plants represent months of careful cultivation by some of the best known flower growers in the east and will be featured at this show for which they were especially grown.

The conservatories of Edwin S. Webster at Chestnut Hill have been devoted all Winter to rare plants for the Spring show. Mr. Webster's display is so elaborate and complete that the entire stage will be devoted to it in order that the best display may be made.

FULLER LAUDS ADVERTISING REVIEW

The Boston Evening American Prize Review of Current Advertising is receiving high praise and an enthusiastic reception all over New England. In addition to the manufacturers, merchants and business and professional men, more than 300,000 American readers are interested.

Which advertisement will be picked as the best in the Boston Evening American this week? It may be any size or class to win.

The plan, which is endorsed by some of the most prominent figures in the public, business and educational life of Massachusetts and New England, is designed to measure advertising values. Probably no man in the public eye today appreciates more keenly the value of good advertising than Governor Alvan T. Fuller of this Commonwealth, pioneer automobile distributor, whose letter praising the aim and purpose of the Boston Evening American's Prize Review of Current Advertising is published today.

GOVERNOR'S VIEWS.

Governor Fuller in his comment on the Prize Review of Current Advertising stated:

The art of advertising has developed to a marvelous degree in America these last few years. Many advertisements are more readable than news items. Some of them are word pictures of great beauty.

It is highly desirable and of great interest to the reading public that we should have a contest such as the Boston Evening American plans, which has as its object better advertising. Under the stimulus of competition many a person has perfected himself, and so I think that the contest that you are planning will put everyone on his mettle and make the fine points of advertising more generally appreciated by the community as a whole. You have my best wishes for the success of this competition.

Other public and business leaders, together with widely-known educators, have heartily endorsed this drive of the Boston American toward better and greater sales-getting advertising. Among them are Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols of Boston, President Andrew J. Peters of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Their comments relative to the contest will appear from day to day.

The Advertising Club of Boston was quick to set itself down as sponsoring the idea, and the club's leader, President P. F. O'Keefe, known to advertisers and the public throughout New England, appointed the following board of judges, who will determine the winning advertisement each week:

Allen H. Wood, president of Wood, Putnam & Wood Company, No. 178 Tremont street, Boston.

George G. Rorke, district superintendent, Dictaphone Sales Corporation, No. 93 Federal street, Boston.

Ralph E. Conder, advertising manager, Boston Woven Hose & Rubber Company, Cambridge.

Floyd L. Miller, The Barta Press, No. 209 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge.

Jacob S. Wichert, publicity manager, Mellins Food Company, No. 177 State street, Boston.

INTERESTS OF ALL.

These judges were chosen because of their knowledge of the sound principles of advertising and because of their successful experience in one or more fields of business associated with advertising.

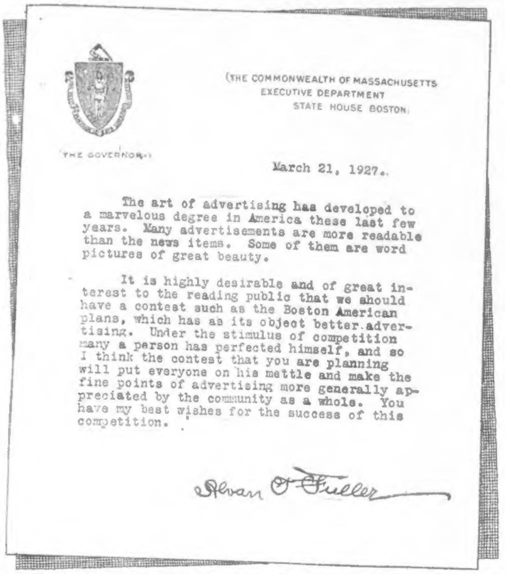
The purpose of the Boston Evening American's Prize Review of Current Advertising is to throw new light on advertising.

Through this competition, which is already attracting much attention, the hopes of the Boston Evening American of making a useful contribution in the cause of better advertising are being realized. It is also enabling the Boston American to continue exerting its influence toward intelligent production and dependable advertising in the interests of the merchants, manufacturers and all others who invest their money in the advertising columns of the paper. This "prize review" is intended as an interesting example of that policy.

As a reward the advertiser whose insertion is judged to be the best appearing in the Boston Evening American during the week and other weeks during the contest, will receive a receipted bill for the advertisement, whether it be a half-inch or a page.

All advertising appearing in the Boston American, whether it be classified, local, or national, is eligible for this "test" except the advertising used in the interests of the American, Boston Advertiser, or other Hearst publications.

APPROVES AMERICAN'S OFFER



THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
STATE HOUSE BOSTON

THE GOVERNOR

March 21, 1927.

The art of advertising has developed to a marvelous degree in America these last few years. Many advertisements are more readable than the news items. Some of them are word pictures of great beauty.

It is highly desirable and of great interest to the reading public that we should have a contest such as the Boston American plans, which has as its object better advertising. Under the stimulus of competition many a person has perfected himself, and so I think the contest that you are planning will put everyone on his mettle and make the fine points of advertising more generally appreciated by the community as a whole. You have my best wishes for the success of this competition.

Warsaw, Poland, March 29 (A.P.).—Soviet Russia and Poland are still trying to negotiate a non-aggression pact to guarantee peace through arbitration in case of differences.

PAIR TO WED AT EXPOSITION

The Home Beautiful wedding takes place tonight at Mechanics Building, where the Home Beautiful Exposition is underway.

The principals this year are Miss Grace Rowan Halliday, 22-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Halliday of No. 65 Blue Hill avenue, Milton, and Charles Noble Lapworth of No. 187 West Chestnut street, Brockton.

The wedding will be performed by the Rev. Norman Raison of the Parkway Methodist Church in Milton.

Miss Halliday was chosen from a group of 15 applicants by General Manager Chester I. Campbell.

Miss Halliday is a graduate of Milton High School and Chandler Normal School of Boston. Her training enables her to fill the position as teacher of commercial law and shorthand at Whitman High School.

Mr. Lapworth is an alumnus of Howard High School, West Bridgewater, and at present is district sales manager for the Brockton Gas Company.

Attending the bride will be Miss Emily Patch of Milton, maid of honor, and the bridesmaids are Audrey Lapworth, sister of the groom; Joyce Michaelson of Cambridge, Vera Sutherland and Muriel Sutherland of Milton and Amy Campbell of Randolph.

William Lapworth, brother of the groom, will be best man.

Panama, March 29 (A.P.)—Charles G. Dawes, Vice-President of the United States, was honored at a banquet given by President Chiari at the Presidential Palace.

CHURCHILL HITS MELLON CLAIM

London, March 29 (I.N.S.).—Great Britain has to date received 10,000,000 pounds from her allied debtors and has paid 135,500,000 pounds on her debt to the United States, Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, stated in the House of Commons today.

He was referring to the recent statement of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon that Great Britain is receiving enough from the allies to meet her debt payments to the United States.

One hundred years of Fountain Pen Service

Make the right selection at the start and your pen will carry through to the finish

Pen satisfaction results from the selection of the proper pen point. Waterman's offers a choice of nine pen points ranging from very fine point to coarse stub.

Pen satisfaction results from the proper size holder. Waterman's may be had in any of five sizes ranging from thin to stout.

Pen satisfaction results from careful attention to manufacturing detail. From the light, resilient hard rubber holder to the iridium-tipped solid gold pen point, every Waterman feature must pass inspection of a score of lynx-eyed censors.

The pen illustrated is made of "Ripple" genuine stainless Rubber. It is No. 01855 and will suit most hands for size. It sells for $6.50. Smaller sizes cost $4.00 and $5.00. Larger sizes $7.50 and $9.50.

Three times a day for these three

The unbridled appetites of these three fine sons, Bobby, Jimmy and Carl, was a problem to Mrs. Mildred C. Burns of Burlington until she worked out her plan.

"Cereal, buttered Bond Bread toast and milk, starts their day," she writes. "To school I send them with delicious Bond Bread sandwiches. For supper fine-textured Bond Bread milk toast, with vegetable salad, fruit and cocoa.

"I have the comfortable feeling that they are getting the food which will build them into straight-limbed, clear-thinking citizens."

Just 8 years ago, 6405 Boston housewives brought samples of their home-baked bread to Tremont Temple to show us the kind of bread they wanted for themselves and their children. Being frankly copied from the best of these 6405 loaves, Bond Bread quickly became Boston's most popular bread.

Why is it that after 8 years of unparalleled popularity, Bond Bread now enjoys an even greater demand than ever before in its history?

Because day after day for 8 long years, Bond Bread has been uniformly home-like. Its splendid flavor comes from its pure ingredients—ingredients every bit as pure and choice as you yourself would use. Its healthfulness comes largely from its thorough baking. This thorough baking is what makes it so firm and close-textured, as well as so flavorful.

Every day more and more housewives realize it pays to discriminate in bread. They have tried them all and have convinced themselves that a home-like, healthful bread, like Bond, is the greatest bargain a woman can buy.

SUNDAY FILM IN DANVERS

Danvers, March 29 (I.N.S.).—Running, skipping or, in fact, any display of activity in this town on Sunday was a high crime in the days of the Puritans, punishable by fastening the offender by the neck and wrists to a wooden framework and exposing him (sometimes her) to public scorn.

Today a count of the ballots cast at a town meeting last night showed a 138 majority on the referendum of the much-discussed question:

"Shall motion pictures be allowed on Sunday in Danvers?"

The total vote was: Yes, 845; no, 707.

FIRESTONE CO. STRIVES FOR LOW RUBBER PRICES

The far-flung offensive of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, having as its objective lower rubber costs to the American motorist through disruption of the present British monopoly, were sketched before 180 Firestone dealers and sales-managers assembled at the Hotel Statler.

Ellery D. Manley, Boston manager, outlined the plans which were part of a letter from Harvey S. Firestone

Within a few years, according to Firestone, one-half of the rubber used annually in the United States will come from the Firestone plantations in Liberia. There 32,000 native workmen are developing 1,000,000 acres of rubber trees under the supervision of 85 white men. Rubber has already been shipped from Liberia.

Manley also discussed production, factory efficiency and merchandising. John S. Coughlin, assistant branch manager, talked on advertising and truck tires. A. M. Snedden delivered a talk on the Liberian dveelopment, illustrated with moving pictures.

Bootleggers Beware! Police'll Get You With Dictaphone

Bootleggers, look out!

Add to their stock of crow bars, sledge hammers and other incidentals to the work of the headquarters liquor squad today came the announcement that a dictaphone, arranged by Oscar L. Ely, was now part of the equipment.

Ely was an electrician before he donned the blue of Boston's finest. Today he demonstrated to the satisfaction of police heads that his dictaphone would be a valuable aid to the work of the headquarters liquor sleuths.

The instrument is arranged to be set on a window behind a curtain. All conversation by plotting bootleggers can be heard in police headquarters through the medium of the delicate dictaphone.

GIRL, 6, STRUCK BY AUTO, NEAR DEATH IN HOSPITAL

Jean Bride, a six-year-old Hartford, Ct., child visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Bride of No. 137 Draper street, Dorchester, is near death at the City Hospital as the result of injuries suffered when she was run down by an automobile near her grandmother's home.

The child was struck by the car of Titus Kibilbo of Whitfield street.

FOUR SEIZED IN $40,000 RAID

In a cranberry bog building at Plymouth, owned by Ralph A. Torrance, Plymouth County jail officer, Federal prohibition agents early today seized 10,000 gallons of alcohol, dismantled a 1,500-gallon still and made four arrests.

Francis Perry, Meyer Resnick, Isadore Goldstein and Harry Snyder, the quartet alleged to have been found on the premises, were arraigned in the Federal building later before U. S. Commissioner Jenney and held in heavy bail for a subsequent hearing.

According to Dennis T. Lordan, head of the raiding squad, Torrance said when questioned that he had leased the farm and outbuildings to a man named Thomas Ryan of Boston about two weeks ago and had no knowledge of the illicit operations being carried on.

Lordan told the court today the successful raid nipped in the bud the prospective source of liquor supplies for the Summer season along the South Shore, and valued the seizure at more than $40,000.

When the Federal agents reached the scene of the raid, they met a truck leaving the premises carrying nine drums of alleged finished product on its way to an unknown destination.

Bail for Snyder and Resnick was set at $5,000 apiece, while Perry and Goldstein were released in bonds of $2,500 each.

FULLER MAY CUT HUB TAX LIMIT

Although not confirmed, a well authenticated rumor ran through the State House today that Governor Fuller will send back the oBston tax limit bill to the Legislature with a recommendation that the limit be cut to $12.

The Legislature put through the bill setting the tax limit at $13, just 50 cents under aMyor Nichols' originally requested limit.

At a hearing before the Governor yesterday, however, the Boston Finance Commission went on record as declaring $11.40 to be a sufficient limit, while the Boston Real Estate Exhange set $12 as its agreeable limit.

You can double the value of your smile

This NEW Way Gives "Off-Color" Teeth Dazzling Whiteness and Makes Your Gums Firm and Healthy . . .

. . . Accept 10-day tube to try. See what happens as film coats go from your teeth

DON'T permit off-color teeth to mar your smile. Study attractive people, men or women. Note the tremendous part gleaming, clear teeth play.

And don't believe your teeth are naturally dull or colorless. With proper daily care, the new way, you can work a transformation in your mouth.

Modern science has found a new way in tooth and gum care, different from all ordinary pastes and dentifrices. A way different from any you have ever known. Just send the coupon for a 10-day test.

Simply a film

Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film, a viscous coat that covers them.

That film is an enemy to your teeth—and your gums. You must remove it.

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs discolorations and gives your teeth a cloudy "off-color" look. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea and gum disorders.

Tooth troubles and gum troubles now are largely traced to that film.

Old-time methods fail in successfully combating it. That's why, regardless of the care you take now, your teeth remain dull and unattractive—your gums soft and toneless.

New methods remove it and Firm the Gums

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, dental science has provided effective combatants. Their action is to curdle the film and remove it, then to firm the gums.

What you see when that film is removed—the whiteness of your teeth—will amaze you.

Mail the coupon. A ten-day tube will be sent you free.

Radio Guessers

1—What station is noted for sports' broadcasts?
2—What are the call letters of the Navy broadcasting station in Charlestown, Boston?
3—How many stations are listed in Boston?
4—Who is E. B. Rideout?
5—From what local station does the "Krazy Kat Kiddies' Klub" broadcast come?
6—What is meant by a ground?

ANSWERS TO RADIO GUESSERS YESTERDAY

1—Federal supervisor of radio for New England. Not to be confused with the newly appointed radio commission.
2—WTIC, Hartford.
3—In the last call book Chicago proper is listed with 30 stations. New York city is next with 28.
4—Usually a storage battery for lighting the tubes.
5—Usually in New York city, although Schenectady, Providence, Boston and other cities occasionally are the starting points.
6—Favorite dance orchestra leader playing from WBZ.

RADIO DIALOG

by C. WILLIAM RADOS

COMMISSIONER Caldwell pleads patience in his speech over the air from WGBS. No solution of the local problems can be attempted until national problems have resulted in clearing the air lanes. This will take longer but will be the only reliable and permanent solution. In the meantime Summer is coming and we can go fishing—getting mosquitos instead of static.

Twenty-eight stations listed in New York City with about three dozen more in the suburbs and adjacent cities! Good place for a crystal set.

After a year or so Roxy came back. His first two broadcasts showed that one cannot remain outside and then hope to catch up immediately. For this reason we listened last night. We wanted to see if the two previous broadcasts had given enough experience so that Roxy could feel back in the swing.

That they did is certain. The greatest showman is again master of them all.

From WNAC last night we heard Antonio Martone present a variety program. As a vocalist with "The World Is Waiting For the Sunrise" he showed a mastery of his field. Our speaker reproduced perfectly and did not develop any flaws during this broadcast.

Bert Cullen's small orchestra also played something, but against bigger attractions they could not compete.

Vocal and violin solos filled out the balance of the period, with "Serenade," by Mr. Martone, a vivacious, sparkling rendition.

Then we turned out to find distance. Distance was there but so was static. From WEAF we listened to the A. & P. Gypsies start their captivating program. We heard the Willys-Overland quartet start in for an hour from WJZ. As this was their first W-O broadcast they were perfect, in fact good enough to advertise Rolls Royce.

But it was from KDKA that we got our best reception. Pittsburgh was very clear and static did not seem to bother it greatly.

The Ruud Light Opera presentation held us by its beauty. "Souvenir from Ivanhoe" and "Neapolitan Love Song," by the leading man, and later on the "Weeping Willow" duet brought back memories of old times.

Not a good night for out-of-town stations was our final verdict, although we did manage to hear a few. The chief enemy was static, whose unwelcome presence was on all wavelengths.

WWRL, WGY, WRNY, WEAF, WJZ, WMCA, KDKA, WPG, WBAL, WMAK, WICC was the list. WWRL, WICC, and an unidentified station between WSAI and WABC were the strongest. Conditions changed every hour, so that signals from New York, weak at one time were loud later.

Value of Dollar Went Up One Cent in February

NEW YORK, Marc[illegible] (United News)—Everybody's dollar was worth a penny more i[illegible] February than it was in January—which means that the H. C[illegible] of L. continues to slip downward, at least on paper.

The index number of th[illegible]ost of living stood at 165.2 in February as compared with [illegible]9 for January, according to the monthly investigation of th[illegible]ational Industrial Conference Board.

But as compared with July o[illegible]914, when $1 was worth a dollar, the February dollar was wo[illegible] but 60 1-2 cents.

The Red Signal ∾ The Lure ∾ By Homer Banks

THE STRANGE APARTMENT—Rosalind awoke with a start. As she opened her eyes sleepily she had a weird feeling of uneasiness. Her first glance caused her to sit up suddenly. She was shocked. This was not home! This ornate, richly decorated bed was nothing like her cot back in her hotel room. She fought down an impulse to cry out. Her glance took in the strange woman standing before the mirror. Gradually the happenings of the day before came back to her. But she could not co-ordinate them clearly as yet. "Where am I?" she asked. What had happened? Involuntarily a cry broke from her lips. "Where am I?" she demanded again.

A NEW FRIEND — Helen turned. "Well, sleepy head, I see you're awake at last." She came over and sat on the edge of the bed and related what had happened on the night before. "And so there was nothing else to do after I had slapped that young pup's face but to bring you here," she ended. Helen slipped her arm around her.

A SURPRISE—"Now," said Helen, "hurry and dress while I prepare breakfast. This being Sunday we can act lazy all day." Rosalind hugged her and jumped out [illegible] exquisite in her fine, youthful vigor. She had just emerged radiant from the bathtub when Helen entered the room again. "Hurry, dear," she pleaded. "I have a surprise for you."

THE UNEXPECTED GUEST—Rosalind hastened into her frock, her mind busy with the "surprise." Life was bright, wonderful and gay. She gave a final pat to her hair and stepped into the other room, running almost full into a pair of masculine arms. "This is Roger Hope, Rosalind," Helen said. "I want you to like each other." "I know we will," smiled young Hope, putting out a friendly hand. Rosalind looked up into his dancing eyes and a tingle went all through her. She had to fight down an impulse to run her hand through his thick, boyish hair. She liked this manly chap immensely. (Continued tomorrow.)

'NIGHT OF LOVE' FILM FEST AT STATE

By LEO GAFFNEY.

[illegible]

Vilma Banky

[illegible] making [illegible] the fuller feminine hearts [illegible] as a lover [illegible] is supposed to have a [illegible] effect on the masculine [illegible]

For pictorial grandeur Director George Fitzmaurice has made "The Night of Love" a [illegible] Beside the two pretty [illegible] there are more ladies and gentlemen of [illegible] attractions, sets of magnificence, ingenious lighting and camera work that is vivid and effective. But as the action is of old feudal Spain the acting is also "in period." The villain fumes and [illegible] and the two stars are put through their paces in a series of poses rather than allowed to move about like normal humans. It's all very pretty and very theatrical.

The story has, apparently, been built to order to exploit certain physical qualities of the stars. There are lingering close-ups in soft focus and candle-light amours of force and fervor.

There is also the scoundrelly duke, Montagu Love, with a thirst, puffed panties, a continuous leer and a forte for stealing brides on wedding nights. When he makes away with the hero's spouse he finds trouble. Rather than yield to him the lady stabs herself, so the [illegible] husband retaliates by abducting the duke's bride on a subsequent bridal night.

That the stolen girl will be Vilma Banky who discovers a great affection for her abductor can be foretold with certainty. That the lecherous monster will attain a death of extreme ignominy is equally sure. That the last scene will be an intimate snuggling of the two love birds is absolutely positive. Life is like that in the romantic fillum drama!

The State stage show features Irving Aaronson's Commanders Band, a lively group of capering musicians who vastly please the audience both as to capers and to music. Other features are Cogert and Motto, who manage to create much jazz without the usual instruments, orchestral novelties and short films.

JUNIOR HADASSAH GIVES YIDDISH OPERETTA

"Bar Kochba," an historical operetta in Yiddish by Abraham Goldfaden, was presented by the Boston Unit Junior Hadassah at the Boston Opera House last night before an audience that crowded the theatre.

The production, which was under the supervision of Julius Nathanson, was an unusually good one, considering that all of the performers were amateurs. The settings and lighting were notably beautiful, and the acting and ensemble were characterized by smoothness.

Of the principal characters Eleazer, a patriarch, was played by Joseph Shnoll; Bar Kochba, a young patriot, by Cecil Gordon; Dinna, daughter of Eleazer, by Miriam Kressym, and Rufus, Caeser of Bethar, by Isadore Bookbinder. The audience enthusiastically applauded the performers.

BERTHA KALICH

Will appear in a revival of Sudermann's "Magda" at the Plymouth starting April 4th.

CROOK PLAY AT ST. JAMES

That there are such people as "Square Crooks" was proved at the St. James Theatre when the Keith-Albee stock company presented an entertaining comedy drama dealing with two reformed crooks and their ancient enemy a detective from headquarters.

The pair of straight going crooks, played by Walter Gilbert and Day Manson, through a trick of fate fall under the suspicion of the law when a necklace is missing from the home of a wealthy banker. The necklace comes into the possession of the crooks by unusual methods but a hard boiled detective attempts to send them to jail for really doing a good deed.

COMIC STRIP PLAYERS AT WALDRON'S

"Jiggs, Maggie and Dinty," a farcical cartoon comedy conceived from the characters made famous by George McManus [illegible]

Thelma Barlow

[illegible] In essence that is the plot.

The whole piece is new, excellently conceived and is a riot of fun from first to last. Pete Curley, who made such a hit last year in "Bringing Up Father," is again seen as Jiggs while Beatrice Harlow is Maggie, and as handy with a rolling pin as ever.

Ray Mack as "Dinty Moore" gives an entertaining account of the role. Walter A. Brown, as "the Duke of Edam," is a merry addition to the McManus characters. Mae Janese and Thelma Barlow, in their respective parts, and Tom Moran in the role of "Harry Barry", all contribute to the action and vim.

Figaro and De Land do a clever specialty. Throughout the whole action there are songs and dances interspersed, and the chorus of 18 is entitled to much credit for its work.

Mary Astor May Play Nun in 'The Miracle'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor.

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—Richard Rowland has Mary Astor in mind for the part of the Nun in "The Miracle."

Probably Miss Astor doesn't even know that she is being discussed and that plans are being made to produce this famous play on a most lavish scale. George Fitzmaurice [illegible]

Mary Astor

FRED NIBLO MADE SOME of the best box office attractions ever turned out by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Film Company. In that list "Ben Hur" and "The Temptress" are conspicuously placed. Now, Mr. Niblo is returning to make "The Enemy," another important production.

"The Enemy," Channing Pollock's [illegible]

GILDA GRAY, THE SHIMMYING FAVORITE whose wiggle made her famous from coast to coast, is now headed in the direction of Los Angeles. Gilda who signed a contract to play in Samuel Goldwyn's productions has had no less famous an author than Arthur Hornblow write her first Goldwyn movie.

Mr. Hornblow calls it "The Passionate Island." Marcel De Sano who with Miss Gray, only recently joined the Goldwyn organization, will direct the Hornblow story as his first picture.

AFTER WANDERING ABOUT from studio to studio, Louise Fazenda is back on the Warner lot.

Many moons ago Warners announced they had Louise in mind for a starring role and now they are about to keep that promise. She will play the lead in "Simple Sis," an original story by Alfred Kenyon, to be directed by Herman Raymaker.

AFTER GETTING EVERYBODY at First National all het up over the report that Sidney Kent was coming out here to take over the managership of the company Mr. Kent puts an end to speculation by sending a wire in which he denies that he has had any idea of leaving Famous Players-Lasky.

I don't know why I should print this denial excepting Mr. Kent requests that a denial be broadcast and I am just the kind of girl who loves to deny other people's stories.

THE MOTION PICTURE PEOPLE are always sympathetic and understanding when a good cause is presented. The N. V. A. drive now being conducted in Los Angeles for the upkeep of the sick and disabled members of the vaudeville profession is being helped greatly by the movie folk.

The other night at the Ambassador Hotel, Gertrude Olmstead, Claire Windsor, Ruth Roland, Bessie Love, Priscilla Dean, Martha Sleeper and Margery Daw and others sold tickets and in almost less time than it takes to tell had disposed of enough to assure the organization that the gala performance April 2, will be a sold out proposition.

RED SOX BREAK CAMP AFTER GAME TODAY

By BILL GRIMES

[illegible] one of the best hustlers on the Red Sox, will catch the entire game. Hofmann has been the first string catcher since the Sox arrived here and he is looking better every day. He is on the job every minute and there is no player on the squad who has workd as hard to get right down into the best possible condition.

After Tony Welzer decided that he has had enough, Rudie Sommers, the veteran left hander who was sent to Columbus by the Sox last Spring, will finish up. Sommers is a smart worker and he will cause opponents plenty of trouble this year.

"Peewee" Wanninger is still holding onto the short stop job. He has not been hitting but he has been giving a wonderful account of himself defensively.

From now until the season opens, the regulars will have the call except at shortstop, where Rigney and Wanninger are still batting, and one outfield position.

It is Manager Carrigan's idea to get some team work in the playing of the Sox between now and the time the season opens.

Mostil May Play Again in May

Maloney Follows in Steps of Champions

By Jack Conway

"HAS any of the neighbors' children got a cigar or a pipe so that I can have a little smoke?" queried Mr. Boston as he [illegible] to the sporting department today. "I am feeling [illegible] with Jimmy Maloney, Dan Carroll, Major Billy Lynch and Charley Solomon at Loew's Orpheum," resumed the veteran. "I always get a kick out of seeing a heavyweight do his stuff on the stage.

[illegible]

MR. BOSTON

"CORBETT is a finished actor. He could make a good living on the stage even if he were stripped of his background as former heavyweight champion of the world.

"[illegible] of his stage work when he was teamed up with Billy Van. This pair didn't have to ask for a handicap from any vaudeville team.

"Bob Fitzsimmons showed in Boston on numerous occasions. He did not come up to Corbett as an actor, but like John L., he had a great deal of color to his remarks and action.

"Jim Jeffries has been here both as champion and former title holder. Jeff never cared much for the stage. He preferred to do his stuff in the ring.

"JACK JOHNSON, next to Sullivan, was the best entertainer back stage. He always insisted on having a violin or some other musical instrument in his dressing room. He played and sang while he waited for his turn to go on. Just so that his callers would not consider him unsociable, Johnson used to have plenty of port wine in his dressing room.

"Willard went at his stage work much like he would at a job of chopping down trees. All he was interested in was the amount of money he would receive at the end of the week.

"Jack Dempsey measured up close to Sullivan as a drawing card. His magnetic personality has enabled theatre owners to make fortunes on his appearance. Victor Morris told me that Marcus Loew paid Dempsey $10,000 a week and made a large profit on him. It seems that people everywhere were anxious to see 'Tiger Jack' in action.

"Gene Tunney, while not the attraction that Dempsey was, plays to capacity houses.

"MALONEY makes four appearances a day at the Orpheum, bowing to the gang at 12 o'clock noon, 3 p. m., 6 p. m. and 9 p. m. The vaudeville team of Hawthorne and Cook works in with Maloney's act.

"When Jim is introduced, he is decked out in a tuxedo. He later shifts to ring togs and boxes one comedy round with Hawthorne. It is a riot. Even Jack Sheehan gives it a laugh. Jimmy then gets down to serious business and breezes along three rounds with Ted Coolidge. Tom Kirby will step in at the Orpheum this week and pinch hit for Coolidge.

"It is the plan of Dan Carroll to have Coolidge and Kirby step along at a lively clip so that Maloney will derive some real benefit out of his week on the stage.

JINX HOLE AT MYOPIA REMEDIED

Thirteenth, Long a Source of Discontent, Will Be No More, Says Club Pro

By STED CHANDLER

The one hole on the golf course at Myopia Hunt Club which has caused more trouble than any other, namely, the thirteenth—unlucky number—will no longer be a source of discontent.

Sted Chandler

"Golfers," stated Tom [illegible] Dean, the well-known professional, who [illegible] has [illegible] the thirteenth hole [illegible] than any other [illegible] almost [illegible] one [illegible] has [illegible] discontent [illegible] way. [illegible] the [illegible] climbing toward [illegible] level, it has been [illegible] and pushed over to [illegible] and has been provided with a brand new tee, further to the rear than the old one, with consequent added yardage.

This will allow the player to see the base of the flag toward which he is driving and although it should be a minor point in the game it seems to be [illegible] by many [illegible].

This [illegible] change to be seen [illegible] course [illegible] from season to season.

"We are," Dean declares, "in common with everyone else I guess, looking forward to our best season. The course has had a fine start and will only take a little more good weather to round into mid-season condition."

Joe Allen, formerly of Nashua, who will be pro at A. B. Brown's North Shore Golf Club, Salem, this year, has arrived in Pinehurst from Florida, where he and Mr. Brown will have a week of golf before coming home for the Summer.

Dennis Crowley, the greenskeeper [illegible] at Wo[illegible] has decided that [illegible] must have a new tee. He has constructed a new one for the fourteenth hole which is located behind the old road. The extra yardage thus afforded makes the fourteenth much more difficult than previously. A weak drive now means a hard second shot.

Roberts 10 to 8 Choice for Bout with Mello

By JACK CONWAY

The speculative element [illegible] Roberts' record justifies [illegible] stating him a favorite. They point to the fact he knocked out Joe Dundee in a round, and in a return bout had the Baltimore citizen flat on his back twice in the fourth session.

RUNYON Says—

MR. HENRY SANTLEY, the song writer, was around the other evening telling me about a man who has one of those systems for beating the races.

Of course, you know that no system can beat the races, but if you had ten per cent of the money that has been lost in following systems for beating 'em you would make Henry Ford look like a small operator.

Damon Runyon

As I gathered from Mr. Santley's explanation, the man bets $20 on each of the horses in every race that are rated one two three by a certain well known handicapper. He bets on each of the three horses to win. It costs him $60 per race, or $420 per card of seven races.

"How does he stand on the system?" I asked Mr. Santley.

"Well," said Mr. Santley, "he's a multi-millionaire, so it doesn't make any difference to him how he stands."

He will not be a multi-millionaire long however, if he persists in that system or in any other system. The late [illegible] Costigan, [illegible] well [illegible] races many years, once told me that there was only one sure system of beating the races.

Costigan Had Best System of All

"How's that?" I asked.

"KEEP YOUR MONEY IN YOUR POCKET!" replied Mr. Costigan.

I SUPPOSE of all the systems for beating the races the best known and perhaps the most successful is the one attributed to "Chicago" Tim O'Brien, a stumpy, sturdy, red-faced man, who was once a bricklayer.

His system was, and perhaps still is, to bet on the favorite in a race to finish third. Naturally, under this system he has to take an extremely short price for his money. I have heard it said that he has wagered as much as $10,000 to win $1,000.

It is a system that takes plenty of money and plenty of nerve. "Chicago" O'Brien started with only a few dollars and patience. The average mortal, however successful he might be following "Chicago" O'Brien's system would soon get impatient over small profits and start going away at better prices for a [illegible].

O'Brien Piled Up Fortune Betting

I said that "Chicago" O'Brien's system made him wealthy, though I imagine that O'Brien used something more than a hard and fast system of betting on the races in accumulating his money, such as judicious investments. And I am very sure that "Chicago" O'Brien would advise anyone else against using his system as a means of wealth.

THE average system for beating the races is founded on far less logic than "Chicago" O'Brien's system. Some of them are based on nothing more than the element of luck, some on superstition. And none of them can be permanently successful, or there would be no race tracks at this time. The systems would have all the money.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, owner of Sarazen, had a curious, and quite feminine, system of betting on the races. She would bet $200 straight, $200 place and $200 third on the horses in each race whose number was 4 or the multiple of 4 on her program. That is to say, she would bet on Nos. 4, 8 and so on—$600 per horse.

I do not know that Mrs. Vanderbilt followed this system as a steady thing. Probably not, or the Vanderbilt fortune would have been exhausted. However, Mr. Tom Thorp, the eminent football and turf expert, figured out one day at Saratoga that the lady must have won around $29,000 on the events of the afternoon.

Waits Till Horses Parade to Post

Mrs. Vanderbilt's system was built entirely on the element of luck, of course, and was without logic, in fact. The number four is apparently associated in her mind with good luck. And, after all, her system is about as sensible as some of the others I have heard of.

TANSEY NORTON ON WITH PETE BIANCI

Tansey Norton of Roxbury, who has been winning all his late starts by the knockout route, will meet Pete Bianci of Clinton at Mechanics Hall, Worcester on Friday night. Norton expects to add another K. O. to his list. He also hopes that George Kid Lee will agree to meet him in the very near future.

Battle of Ballots Ends Saturday; Vote Now!

Be sure and vote.

Do it now.

The voting contest of the Boston Evening American which makes it possible for the fans to select a winner in the coming Jack Sharkey-Jim Maloney bout at the Yankee Stadium, New York, May 19, closes Saturday. The winner will be announced Tuesday. Don't forget to vote.

Sharkey and Maloney are running neck and neck in the contest. Dynamite Jim is drawing his support from his home folks in South Boston. Sharkey's followers seem to come from the suburban towns. It's a close struggle and right now looms up as anybody's ball game, as they say when Babe Ruth comes up with two out and the bases loaded in the ninth.

Maloney is showing off that famous left hand at Loew's Orpheum this week. Jack Sharkey is busy planting a garden, but within two weeks both local heavyweights will start training for their classic battle in New York.

As the date of the struggle approaches interest flames higher. Get in line and send in a vote for your favorite. Sharkey leads now with 1381, but Maloney is close up with 1286. Either heavyweight can win.

Cut out the ballot, mark it and sent it to the Sporting Editor, Boston Evening American.

Do it now.

PRINCE ALBERT
CRIMP CUT
LONG BURNING PIPE AND CIGARETTE TOBACCO

Your tongue says: "Thank you!"

GOOD old Prince Albert in the bowl of your pipe . . . a cooling current of smoke pouring over your tongue . . . the wonderful taste of a wonderful tobacco . . . nothing to compare with this anywhere, Men, I tell you. You can smoke a pipe and enjoy it—with P. A. for packing.

I was pipe-shy for years, before I discovered Prince Albert. I wanted to smoke a pipe. Other men seemed to get so much comfort and enjoyment from pipe-smoking. Then one happy day, Prince Albert crossed my trail. It was cool and kind to my tongue and throat. I've stuck!

No matter what your previous experience has been; no matter how satisfied you appear to be with your present set-up, I advise you to try Prince Albert. You know you are in for some glorious smoke-sessions the instant you get a whiff of P. A.'s fragrance.

The first pipe-load confirms the pleasure promised by the aroma. Cool as an open window. Sweet as milk fresh from the dairy. Mild and mellow as a tropic night. Mild, yet with that full, rich tobacco body that satisfies to the limit. I know you are going to like P. A.! Buy a tin today!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half pound tin humidors, and pound crystal glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

A Peril That Follows Success

By WINIFRED BLACK.

A SAYING which has attained the dignity of a modern proverb is that which declares "Nothing succeeds like success."

Truth is firmly based upon these words, and there is no discounting them.

To have the stamp of success imprinted upon one's work, after a fair trial—that success coming from real experience, is worth while, but someone has called attention to the fact that there are great dangers connected with success. Who has not seen a man or a woman spoiled by what seemed overwhelming success?

Vanity flourishes in the atmosphere of success. Many a man has failed to be equal to the temptations which come to the very successful, and lost friends and admirers by it.

Nothing can excuse the overriding of others by the too successful man.

And then I have seen men and women who have become too sensitive, too soft, to bear the ordinary ills of life after a career of unbroken success.

I remember a promising musician who was in a fair way of becoming an artist in playing the piano. After a season in Europe under a great master, the musician came home and immediately began to suffer from envy of other musicians. This trait grew upon him until the harmony of his nature was out of joint and soon the trouble showed in the music which came from his flying fingers.

He could not stand the contrast between himself and another man whose playing was a delight to all his friends. It was said that his easy success in his profession had spoiled him, and this seemed to have been true.

It is needed by every earnest worker that he or she should have a large nature, one than cannot be cramped by small failings, one that can work for high ideals and rejoice in their attainment.

If one becomes too much absorbed in his own work, if he begins to feel that his music or his art his writing or whatever he makes his life work, is of first importance in his little world, he is at the beginning of ultimate failure.

We have all seen the danger of overestimating oneself. I remember a teacher, a very clever young woman, who was in a school I often visited long ago. This girl started as an ambitious, fine teacher, but she was very easily flattered and soon she began to take more pleasure in showing off before the pupils and visitors whenever opportunity arose.

In the course of one year this girl deteriorated in her work so that that discriminating friends saw that all her promise in her profession would fail.

We all long for success in our lives and in our work, but it will be well to remember that there are dangers in the drinking of the sweet draught which we so much desire.

To the oft-repeated proverb, "Nothing succeeds like success" might be added "and nothing is more dangerous."

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.

DO you like decent, well-meant, honest praise? Don't deny it, for you do. So does everybody.

And how you did like a word of praise from father or mother when you were a child!

Well, what was true of you as a child is today true of your children.

Children have the capacity to distinguish between naughtiness and sin at a very early age. Naughtiness is punished and done with, but sin leaves a more lasting impression on the mind and produces fear and a sense of inferiority.

This is because the child acquires a sense of sin through the effect on it of grown-up disapproval. When it is rude or breaks something, it is merely punished, but if it lies or cheats it has to face disapproval.

Some children love approbation more than others, and are correspondingly more susceptible to disapproval.

A few suffer torments in the conflict between the desire to own up to a lie and the fear of consequences.

It is very difficult and very important to train a child to conquer the fear which leads to morbid impression, and yet not to blunt the fine moral sense which makes it feel that to steal a piece of chocolate is as bad as to steal a purse. It is possible to do just as much harm by belittling the sin of the chocolate stealer as it is by telling it that it is a thief and will go to hell.

Ah, that word "hell"! How I hate the man who invented it! How I execrate the memory of the fiends who perpetuated it upon my credulous childhood! Hell, with its flames, and the devil with his three-tined, spear-pointed pitchfork holding a small boy over the infernal grill!

Don't instill fear, dissipate it in your children.

In childhood there is often a fear as to what may happen next.

The fear of the next step is, indeed, an experience common to everyone all through life. It is the fear of the unknown. The baby shrinks unconsciously from the step toward childhood, the child dreads the beginning of adult life, the youth dreads middle age, and the middle-aged dread old age.

Everyone dreads death, not because it is associated with illness and pain, but because it is a gate into unknown country.

The child who clings to childhood is in very much the same position. He knows by instinct and by observation that life will force him to give up the joys and privileges of his present state.

Do More Than Duty

By LUCY LOWELL

"DON'T be content," runs a precept, "with doing only your duty. Do more than your duty. It's the horse who finishes a neck ahead who wins the race."

A homely idea. To do a task especially well because it is disagreeable, because it irks and fills you with resentment—well, did you ever try it?

A great man, one whose work is as a shining light to many, told the other day of the thing that had begun to fashion his character when he was a little fellow.

A small thing, no more than the job of picking berries on a Saturday when the trout were biting and the kids with their lines and bait cans were yelling over the gate.

But his grandmother had given him the quart pail, the berry patch was waiting.

Not an easy task for a youngster. Indeed he felt so hard about it that the first pint of berries came very very slowly.

And then, for some reason, he began to experiment. He put out of his mind the picture of the shady brook and a string of fish dangling in the water and started to think of the berries. In spite of himself he got so interested that when the pail was filled he got another quart measure and picked that full.

Perhaps in later years he didn't always remember the strange satisfaction that comes with doing more than duty. But certainly he remembered sometimes; his life shows that.

No more, no less . . . but Quaker Oats has the flavor

THE difference in breakfast oats is in their flavor. The price mostly is the same.

Millions demand the Quaker brand because of its toasty, wonderful flavor. For flavor is the important point in food.

Some 50 years were spent perfecting that famous Quaker flavor. Once you taste it, you are spoiled for ordinary oats.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates and vitamines and "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently balanced ration.

Get Quick Quaker (cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes) or Quaker Oats today at your grocer. See how much finer tomorrow's breakfast will be than today's.

The Thrill of Love and Millions Abounds in Every Chapter

CHAPTER XXXVII.

Slowly Luke Jefferies came to himself and cursed feebly. There was a peculiarly nasty taste in his mouth.

Gradually he became conscious of his surroundings. He was in a large bare room with washed walls, and containing two or three chairs as sole furniture.

Jefferies noticed a leather bracelet on his wrist to which was attached a long leather thong. He began to take stock of the situation.

Memories flooded back to his mind. Mavis Bane's white face with its queer expression of mingled triumph and contrition; the severed telephone wire. He had been trapped. Carnifex and his crowd must be at the bottom of this, and by some means or other they had got to Mavis.

Jefferies' eyes ran along the leather thongs attached to his wrists, and noted where they slipped through eyelet-holes in the floor and communicated with a kind of pulley arrangement attached to the ceiling. His ankles were secured in similar fashion.

Jefferies smiled grimly. His captors had bound him cunningly and effectively; they were taking no chances. He was seated in a broad chair comfortably enough, but there was no chance of slipping his bonds, and they could be tightened if [illegible]ry.

He began to wonder where he was; how long he had been here, how long it would be before his captors found he had recovered consciousness.

Upon this last score he was not left long in doubt. A moment later a dark slim man opened the door and entered the room.

"Hello," said Jefferies, cheerfully. "What's the time?"

"It is nearly midnight," said the dark man, with a strong foreign accent.

"And where am I?" asked Jefferies, in a disengaging tone.

The man stared at him for a moment, and seemed about to speak, when there was the sound of voices on the stairs and he was silent.

Vishnil entered the room followed by Carnifex, Weser and Navikoff.

Vishnil was dressed in a stylishly cut suit of dark material. He wore a soft felt hat, carried a gold-headed cane and was smoking a long thin cigar.

"Ah!" he said, in his soft purring tones. "So Mr. Jefferies has recovered consciousness."

He snapped his fingers and the dark slim man went out of the room like a cringing dog.

"And how is Mr. Jefferies?" resumed Vishnil.

Jefferies looked curiously at this man who had so terrified Mavis Bane, and whose plans Curwen Brown was so anxious to frustrate.

"I'm fine, thanks," said Jefferies. "It's charming of you to go to all this trouble to get me down to your place in the country."

He hesitated a minute on the last word and Vishnil smiled.

"You are quite right, my friend," he said. "It is in the country. In Surrey, about forty miles from London. In fact, it is outside Sunbridge, quite near to the house of your late friend Abraham Steel."

Carnifex gave vent to a gruff coughing sound that might have signified remonstrance. Vishnil ignored it.

"Of course," he continued softly, "your intelligence will have told you why I give you this information, Mr. Jefferies. It is because you will never leave this house alive without my consent, and then only subject to my conditions."

"Those conditions are?"

"Come, Mr. Jefferies," said Vishnil, with a patient smile. "You know what I want, and, I can assure you, I am accustomed to having my way."

"Suppose," said Jefferies, slowly, "suppose I haven't Abraham Steel's sec[illegible] at all and never had it?"

"[illegible] know that it has been in your possession since Steel's death."

"That's where you're wrong," said Jefferies, quietly. He spoke with the unemotional detachment of a man who does not expect to be believed, but who nevertheless states the truth purely for its own sake.

"You waste time," said Vishnil quickly. "Perhaps that is your idea, to waste time, eh? It is not good, my friend. You will never be discovered here, and in any case, unless you tell that secret quite soon there will not be much of you to discover."

Jefferies smiled.

"Listen, Monsieur Vishnil, for that's your name, I understand. Try to get this clearly. Steel died without passing his secret on to anyone. You have refused to believe this because you have been too clever, and it is precisely because you have [illegible] so clever that all your plans [illegible] It's true I pretended to [illegible] secret, but that was only [illegible] you to England. That's why I told Carnifex to put me in touch with his principals. Curwen Brown wanted you in England, Vishnil, and you'll find it easier to come here than to get away again. Now then, I haven't got what you want, and mark [illegible] whatever devilry you practice on me you'll have to pay for it very soon."

There was a ring of sincerity and confidence in Jefferies' tone that made Vashnil pause. He looked sharply at Carnifex.

"That's all lies," said Carnifex gruffly. "Smirnoff saw this man bend close over Steel as he was dying, and heard Steel whisper his secret in the other's ear. This man is bluffing to save his skin."

Vishnil suddenly dropped into a language which Jefferies could not understand; it was evident that he was closely questioning Carnifex, who replied to him in the same language. Vishnil's face cleared; his smile became as imperturbable as ever.

"We are sorry your eloquence does not convince us, Mr. Jefferies," he said. "I have very little time to waste. Are you going to tell us all you know about Steel's discovery?"

"I have told you all I know."

Vishnil sighed gently.

"Then we must proceed with other methods," he said wearily. "You are a very obstinate man, Mr. Jefferies, and I'm afraid our subsequent treatment of you may cause you very considerable pain; however, you will understand that you can stop it at any time you wish."

"You mean torture?" said Jefferies slowly.

"Precisely."

"You wouldn't dare," said Jefferies. "Remember what I said about Curwen Brown—you'll answer for this."

A sudden change came over Vishnil. His little slanting eyes glinted wickedly. He stepped quite close to Jefferies and deliberately pressed his glowing cigar on the back of his prisoner's hand. Vishnil held it there for several seconds while the smell of burning flesh arose in the room.

Vishnil turned from him, and clapped his hands authoritatively.

"To work," he cried. "Have this fire made up, and get Alexoff."

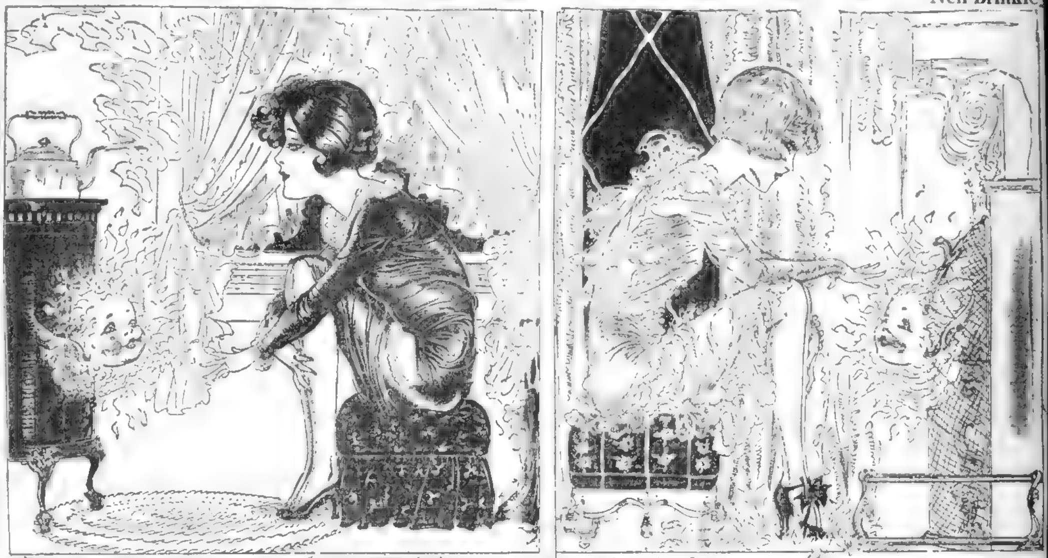
LUCKY TIGER

Cinderella and Graciosa

He Shows the Same Glowing Face to Each

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley



MOST of us hope that there are still fairies in the world. We do not know. And we very much doubt. Especially the good faery sticks in our mind as a good person to establish reality for, the good faery who made folks a present of a bottomless purse, and the wine-jug that never went empty no matter how much a fellow poured from it.

But there is a good GENTLEMAN faery still left, who is as old as the very beginnings of the inhabitants of faery-land. And HE is real. No doubt about him. No doubt about his generosity. None about his beauty. None about his impartiality. For he shows the same radiant countenance to the modern Cinderella. The flames of his golden hair are just as warm to one as the other. Not a glimmer of a smi[illegible] not a feather, not a gleam of an eyebrow, not a promise in his eyes, i[illegible] changed for Ashputtle when he shines from the brave door of her oi[illegible] stove, from the glimmer, the gleam, the promise, that he showed t[illegible] Graciosa in the golden glow of her boudoir fireplace.—NELL BRINKLEY.

'The Hollywood Girl'; Bobbie Becomes a Bathing Beauty at the Studio

on the set, which was a bath-house at a Summer resort.

All the other bathing beauties were grouped about a very tall thin man who had little eyes and a little chin, offset by an enormous nose and an Adam's apple the size of a golf ball.

"Lank Nordstrom!" Bobbie exclaimed silently when she saw him. She had been watching his antics on the screen for ten years.

The bathing beauties were making extravagant love to him, and he was pretending to beat them off. They shrieked with laughter, and it was real laughter. And presently Bobbie found herself laughing with them, and a warm feeling of happiness seemed to gush up within her and flood her heart.

It was good to laugh like this as she hadn't laughed in weeks and weeks, as she thought she never would have laughed again. Not for any special reason.

Life had been so deadly serious, lately. It is no laughing matter to be in love as Bobbie had been—and still was—with Angus MacCloud.

For three days Bobbie was a bathing beauty at the Curio Studio.

For three days she gossiped and giggled with the other bathing beauties, as if she hadn't a thing on her mind.

It was very plain that the others really did have little on their minds. Sometimes Bobbie doubted that they had any minds at all, nothing but beautiful bodies covered with beautiful ivory flesh and beautiful bathing suits the size of a pocket handkerchief.

"We won't need you tomorrow, Sam, the red-headed assistant director, told them all on the evening of the third day, and Bobbie went away from the studio feeling as [illegible] as a child leaving a [illegible] party. She had enjoyed her three days of nonsense at the Curio Studio.

She went back to Mrs. Mangan's, $71 richer than she had been on Monday morning.

"I'll make this money last as long as I can," she made up her mind as she walked along Hollywood boulevard, past all the windows glittering with [illegible] and [illegible] with Spanish shawls and [illegible] She tried to turn her head the other way as she passed them, but they drew her eyes [illegible] In one shop window near the Egyptian theatre, was a flesh-colored scarf covered with silver spangles.

It was as thin and rosy as dawn-mist, and the spangles lay upon it like dew-drops. She could see it in her mind's eye long after she stopped looking at it, and went on up the boulevard. She kept on thinking about it as a woman will when she yearns for a thing and has the price of it in her pocketbook.

"How well it would look with my evening dress," she said to herself. She knew just how her bare shoulders would gleam through that dim, pink misty stuff.

But then, what was the use in buying such lovely things when she never went anywhere in the evening any more? When there was no Gus to call her up and take her to dinner in the [illegible] house or at the Montmartre restaurant? Gus. Gus.

Nevertheless, she found herself facing around and starting back toward the shop where the pink scarf hung in all its roseate and sparkling glory.

As she did so, a light-colored car flashing past, caught her eye. Without looking at it squarely, she knew whose car that was, and who was in it.

It turned in the middle of the block, breaking a traffic law, and drew up beside her.

"My girl! There she is!" said Gus MacCloud, and he leaped out of the car and took her by both arms, shaking her a little. There was no mistaking the welcome and relief in his face. He was tickled to death to see her. He said so, in those very words.

They stood there, enraptured, in the dusk—and they didn't care wh[illegible] people looked at them or [illegible]

"You never even wished me Merry Christmas!" said Gus, thinking of himself and his wrongs first as [illegible]

"I didn't have a Merry Christmas," Bobbie came back at him [illegible] "I had a very [illegible] and [illegible] and miserable Christmas and I cried all day."

"I see what makes your eyes shine so now."

"They're shining because they're looking at you," Bobbie answered.

She tried to say it flippantly and airily, the way Monica might have. But her voice broke, and she bit down hard on her lips to keep from [illegible] and [illegible]. She was so glad [illegible]

[illegible] New Year [illegible] [illegible] kiss [illegible] of her hat [illegible] a rose [illegible] to your house [illegible] get [illegible] o'clock [illegible] He waited for her answer, and when she nodded [illegible]

"And we'll go up to my house, and I'll throw the best and biggest party you ever saw—just for you. We'll ask everybody—"

"But not Monica," Bobbie broke in, shaking her head. "I don't want Monica."

"Then we won't have Monica. Now, come on, hop into the old Speed Merchant, and I'll run you home."

But Bobbie said no—she had some shopping to do.

And when he was out of sight she danced along the sidewalk to the [illegible] and [illegible] the scarf [illegible] over it. It was $20, but Bobbie felt that it was [illegible] at the price. She was going to wear it for Gus.

"For Gus," she said over and over and over on the way up to Las Palmas street to Mrs. Mangan's.

"Gus," echoed the dripping faucets in the bathtub late that night as she lay awake in bed, thinking of him.

"Gus," repeated the wind, rustling the wet palm leaves out of doors. There was nothing in the world for her that night but Gus MacCloud.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

PERHAPS TOO YOUNG

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I have known a girl for a year and a half. Many a time she has called me up, and I have seen and spoken to her often. But she will not go out with me. She says her parents do not allow her to go out with young men. Could you tell me what to do? I love her.

J. HARRY O.

IS she very young? If so, very likely her parents are opposed to her receiving attentions from young men, and you will be wise to respect their wishes and content yourself with a pleasant acquaintance with her until she is older.

In case she accepts invitations from other men, however, it is safe to assume that she is trying to refuse your attentions and friendship in a way that will not hurt your feelings. In that case, devote yourself to other friends and forget her.

4 out of 5 start too late

Among the people you see today, four out of five past forty (and many younger) are victims of Pyorrhea—simply because they started too late to protect teeth and gums.

Pyorrhea starts with tender, bleeding gums. Unchecked, it undermines youth and health and often results in loss of teeth, neuritis, ulcers, rheumatism or other serious diseases.

But have no fear. If you start in time, you can prevent or check the inroads of Pyorrhea. See your dentist at least twice a year. And start using Forhan's for the Gums.

This dentifrice thwarts Pyorrhea or checks it. It is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D. D. S., a recognized specialist in Pyorrhea.

Forhan's firms the gums, keeps them healthy. It protects teeth and keeps them white.

Don't gamble with health! Start the Forhan morning-and-night habit, now. Teach your children to use it, too, as health-insurance. Play safe. Get a tube today. At all druggists, 35c and 60c.

DAILY SHORT STORY

FLESH

By Maria Crawford Luttrell

"BUT even when I was reading my poetry to you, Jimmy [illegible]—looked at my knees. I was sure of that." [illegible] Her wide blue eyes were misted with tears.

Jimmy [illegible] his head [illegible]. There was a [illegible] to something [illegible] young men [illegible].

"Well, I'm a man [illegible] and I'm in love with you."

"But you are all flesh, Jimmy, and [illegible] the soul entities. You know that."

"I [illegible] that so [illegible] stuff [illegible] you talk about [illegible]" His voice was tender and he was looking into her amazed eyes. "We're not all cut on the same pattern. I'm I and you're—you—and that's just about the nicest thing there is in this whole wide world—You! I'll try to change but just now—well, I'd like to put my arms around you and kiss you. You're so little and sweet."

"I can't idealize any man who stares at my knees when I am talking about my soul," Eleanor challenged grimly.

"Sorry!" said Jimmy, contritely, rising and pulling his soft gray hat between long slender fingers. "Going to the dance with me tonight?" He could not quite hide the eagerness that he felt.

With the guile of Eve, the girl answered: "Of course I am. You promised to introduce me to a real poet who gets his things [illegible] print."

"Theo Warren! He'll be the beau of the ball, that is, if he will give his sweetness to girls when [illegible] so much a word for it from his [illegible] sisters. He's good looking too. Pretty nice chap even if he does call people sublime and rhapsodize over mere mortals."

"Imagine," dreamed Eleanor as she pulled a silver white gown over her beautifully waved hair, "seeing your own name in a magazine. Theo Warren must be wonderful! He won't stare at my knees." She peered into the mirror to see just how short the charming new frock really was. "He will literally feel the fire from my soul," she mused. "I'm going to quote my new poem to him—the lovely one about a doll being tenderly loved and unable to love in return. He'll like me!"

She pirouetted on the high heeled silver slippers. The filmy flounces of the new frock billowed out about her. She was like some fair young nymph dancing in a woodland. "Wouldn't it be wonderful to have someone like Theo Warren love—love me?" She said to her reflection in the glass. "I want someone to see the something really fine within me—not just flesh—flesh!" She looked long at the image in the mirror. "Girls who are actually plain and are loved are lucky. They are loved for something besides figures and hair and eyes and—and mouths!"

There sounded the tinkle of a distant bell. Eleanor caught up the green velvet cape with its high collar of snowy ermine. Jimmy had sent her white violets. She lifted them out of their tissue wrapping and devoured their delightful fragrance. "Jimmy does think of such unusual flowers. That's what makes me like—him—more than anyone else—in spite of his spiritual lack."

Theo Warren, poet, proved to be good looking! Girls fluttered around him like moths about a candle flame. But just as soon as Jimmy edged his way into the group with the star-eyed Eleanor beside him, Theo saw only Jimmy's partner.

"First no break—and second?" He squeezed her soft white arm, a little too much for a poet who was expected to see only the soul within her. "All of them—all I can get!"

Eleanor began to flutter like the other moths. She seemed to have wings—wings that lifted and carried her light silver clad body to some higher plane.

The orchestra was playing one of Berlin's most sentimental things—something he did when the fever of love burned so exultantly in him. Dancing to it with Theo was all lovely as a dream, lovely as Heaven must be. Every time she looked up she expected to see angels standing within golden gates, ajar!

Jimmy pushed his hand hard into her back once when they were lost in the magic of a waltz.

"Don't lose your head, darling! Theo gets a dozen mash notes every day. This is old stuff to him—this adoration! And he can still play up to it very, very well. I'll tell you that much and leave the rest to your own vivid imagination."

Eleanor's eyes were like jasmine flowers shining in the dusk of the dimly lighted ballroom. "Yes," she answered softly, "that's what I like about him. He fires my imagination—makes me dream dreams and see—visions."

"Any chance of a vision of you and me meeting at the altar soon? That's my dream." Jimmy's voice was so serious that Eleanor looked up a little startled, like a fawn that comes upon something unawares. "Littlest! Dearest! I want you for always and forever!" Jimmie murmured passionately.

Theo claimed her just then and her palpitating heart fluttered even more, when he adroitly guided her out into a shadowy corner, adorned with a gay lantern, a little settee and a bowl of narcissus that smelled of Springtime.

Theo quoted to her his latest verse. It was light as moonbeams, sweet as the blossoms nearby. Then Eleanor rose grandly to her one big moment. She quoted to him, her own verse as beautiful as his and as perfect but there was meat in the kernel of hers, something that held a grain of food for thought.

"You wrote that, yourself?" questioned the successful poet.

Eleanor's voice trembled with ecstacy. "Yes, oh, yes," she said faintly.

Theo looked at her appraisingly. Her heart quivered then. He had recognized her soul. At once! At once!

Suddenly with fierce abandon he put his arms around her and laid hot, moving lips in the hollow of her throat. "You're far too lovely to think," declared the lovely poetical voice, now all gutteral with passion. "It's that marvelous body of yours I'm thinking about—and wanting—not poetry about dolls or whatever it was you were trying to tell me."

Eleanor sat very close to Jimmy in the roadster going home that night.

"I wasn't very nice to you today about—about everything. I don't think it's really terrible for you to admire my form, Jimmy! After all, maybe—well—I'm sure now, men who love are like that!"

Jimmy parked his roadster so suddenly that the man behind cursed him for a fool.

"I think I'll carry white violets," Eleanor whispered when Jimmy took her quietly, reverently into strong young arms, "at our wedding. I [illegible]

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.

ACCORDING to tonsorial statistics, men are spending just as much time in beauty parlors as women. One man has had his face lifted so often that his eyebrows are running down the back of his neck.

HE uses his mustache for a sunshade.

ONE more lift and he'll have to stand on a chair to brush his teeth.

WHEN he dies, his face will reach Heaven ten minutes before his [illegible]

THE beauty parlors told him he's wasting his time. You can't have Francis X. Bushman ideas with a Bull Montana profile.

THERE'S only one thing that keeps him from becoming an Adonis, and that's his looks.

HIS face is so hard that one doctor broke a whole set of tools on it.

HE'S so homely that he could sue his parents for libel.

WHEN he was a baby he won two prizes, but he got both of them at a dog show.

HIS ears are so big that he uses them for sails.

THE wind got behind them once and blew him out of the State.

WHEN he was a kid, his folks couldn't keep him in the same room with an electric fan.

HE'S been thrown out of several theatres for applauding with his ears.

HE has so many wrinkles in his jaw now that the barbers have to go over his chin with a tractor.

HIS nose is so large and throws such a big shadow that it makes his eyes look black.

HIS friends don't even call it a nose. They refer to it as "Pike's Beak."

HE'S so anxious to become handsome that he's got nine beauty parlors working on him in twenty-four-hour shifts.

HE'S wasting thousands of dollars a month in these embellishing salons. He doesn't seem to realize that his face is their fortune.

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

Little Agnes, after a night of croup, was told that she must stay away from school. She started to cry and said the teacher would put her in the furnace if she did not come. Her mother asked her what she meant by the "furnace."

"Teacher said if I stayed home again she would drop me from the register," replied Agnes.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS---BY HELEN ROWLAND

MY Daughter, for a woman marriage is a harbor; but for a man it is a voyage of discovery.

Go to—a woman goeth into matrimony with her eyes wide open, but a man danceth into it when he is NOT looking, and then waketh up!

Behold, he espyeth a damsel in the green golf fields, and his eye brighteneth at sight of her. For lo, she 's something NEW! Yea, she is "different" from the girl before!

He noteth that she hath a neat ankle and that her knees is shapely.

He is dazzled by the color of her hair, and the fit of her sweater is not lost upon him.

He leadeth her to the dance, and her steps rejoice him.

The perfume of her tresses is sweeter than myrrh and frankincense. It maketh him heady!

She looketh at him with dove eyes, and her flattery tickleth into his vanity and enkindleth his self-esteem.

Her line is GOOD!

He kisseth her once, experimentally. And again, tenderly. And again, rapturously. The fragrance of her lipstick getteth him going.

He saith, "THIS for ME!"

Yea, though he struggleth feebly, the rest is EASY!

He findeth himself at the altar, and knoweth not HOW he came there. And it is all OVER with him!

And great is his bitterness and loud are his lamentations, when he discovereth that a woman doth not cook with a dancing foot, nor saw on buttons with a dimpled knee.

Yea, vast is his astonishment when he discovereth that a dull mind oft hideth beneath bright and shining hair, and that great open spaces may exist between shell-like ears.

Lo, bitter are the protests when he findeth that a sweet perfume is not always accompanied by a sweet disposition, and that a good line doth not always signify a good temper, and a pleasant tongue.

Alas, sad is his awakening when he learneth that a lipstick tasteth not the same before breakfast as after dinner, and that there is no novelty in the forty-seventh kiss, nor in the chatter of a beautiful dumb-bell.

For even in the Gamble of Love, a little intelligence is not a dangerous thing.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" —bad breath—a dull, tired feeling — sick headache — torpid liver — constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

FOR Sour Stomach
PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid gassy stomach and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid, gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Try a 25c Bottle

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

New England Telephone and Telegraph Company

Pointers from Presidents; Reaching Top Under Forty

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes.

NEW YORK, March 29.—What have they in common?

That's what I have been asking after associating with three corporation presidents whose age averages less than 40.

The three are W. S. Gifford, president of the three-billion American Telephone & Telegraph Company, who is 42; E. G. Biechler, president of the Frigidaire Corporation and the Delco-Light Company, who is 38, and Paul W. Seiler, president of the Yellow Truck & Coach Manufacturing Company, also 38.

MY REPLY is: Intense absorption in their work, white-heat enthusiasm, thorough mastery of their business, a magnanimous attitude toward other executives, democratic sympathy with and understanding of workers and their attitude towards life. Appreciation of the importance of winning public approval of their products and the character of their organizations.

GIFFORD'S job is in many respects the biggest in the country. No other company in America can boast of more than 300,000 employes, 400,000 stockholders, and assets of fully $3,250,000,000. It has 13,000,000 customers.

TO GET a glimpse into the real character of Walter Gifford, riser from the ranks, I asked him what his favorite motto is. He replied:

"My philosophy of life is perhaps best expressed if it can be expressed briefly in Lincoln's words: 'With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in.'"

Here are other illuminating sentences:

"Unconsciously one tries to discover how the impossible can be done, instead of how the possible cannot be done.

"My first promotion came as the result of my putting facts to work for the company. To understand the facts is the best aid to memory, and it is the only way to make them useful. A man might remember hundreds of facts, but how much good would they do him if he didn't understand them?"

"The executive must have sympathy, tact and force, and must know when to be conciliatory. He must not permit himself to be overwhelmed by details. A good executive should not be too busy. He should always be available to his immediate subordinates. He should have some line of contact with the men in his organization below the rank of those who report immediately to him. He will welcome intelligent opposition and suggestion from anyone and be quick to surrender a prejudice."

"After all, common sense and hard work, combined with a sympathetic consideration for others and pride in the institution, will result in each man going ahead as far as his inherent abilities will permit, in spite of the size and complexity of large organizations."

BITS FROM Biechler:

"From the time I was a boy I have never had much time to play. Other salesmen out on the road would take two hours off to play pool or go to a ball game; I never did. I wanted to go but I figured my job required all my time. The exercise I get is just what comes in the course of the job.

"Thorough knowledge of the job and square shooting are absolutely essential to success in the business world. When I was purchasing agent I endeavored to see every salesman who called. I still always aim to see everyone who calls on me."

"Just what constitutes the secret of success I do not know. I feel, however, that nothing is difficult if you know your problem—if you know the how, the why and the when of the subject."

"I am a strong advocate of the use of printer's ink. What's the use of making a good product if you don't tell folks about it?"

* * *

MR. SEILER talked mainly about the importance of being heart and soul "one of the boys" with those of the rank-and-file of the organization. By convincing them that you are one of them and for them, there's nothing, he has found, they will not do to make you and the business successful.

There you are.

Advice Is Free

Before you buy or sell any stocks or bonds, you should have expert advice. Send your investment inquiries with stamp to Frank H. Meloon financial editor Boston Evening American, No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston No replies can be made except by mail.

Rules for Movie Test

THE Boston American will publish twenty-four scenes (one a day) from different motion pictures. The face or head of one of the players in the picture will be missing. Fill in the coupon under the picture with the name of the missing player and of the picture.

Awards will be made to the six persons who send in complete sets of the twenty-four scenes naming correctly or most nearly correctly the missing players and the plays.

A contestant must write a short letter giving the name of his or her favorite moving picture and why. The logic of this letter will be reckoned by the judges.

Employes of this and affiliated newspapers and persons affiliated with the moving picture business are barred from this competition.

The judges shall be named by the Managing Editor of this newspaper. Their decision shall be final.

Contestants may submit as many sets of answers as they wish.

Hold your pictures until the whole twenty-four have been printed. Then mail your answers and your letter to Contest Editor, Boston Evening American, P. O. Box 110, Boston, Mass. All sets must be in the office of the Contest Editor before midnight, April 21. No sets will be returned.

TODAY

only a few military observers to learn what might be learned. Everybody in Europe is friendly to Japan. Everybody there hates us.

NOW THE Japanese Foreign Office says it isn't going to send troops to China. But it will at once open negotiations requesting profound apologies and cash reparations for damage done to Japanese subjects in China. Compared with practical Japan, we are feeble minded.

THE BIG earthquake came in Armenia and a local religious personage explained it simply: A huge bull carries the world on its shoulders, and occasionally becomes fidgety. Then the earth rocks. The proper incantations, for which you pay a reasonable sum to the religious personage, pacify the bull and he again becomes quiet. Nothing simpler.

THE HUMAN MIND requests and accepts any "reasonable" explanation. Ancients believed that the giant Atlas held the world on his shoulders. When asked: "What does the giant stand on?" they replied: "On a big turtle." That satisfied everybody.

In Wall Street lately the world has been more or less balanced on the back of a gigantic bull, which occasionally becomes fidgety when a bear attacks it. But prosperity incantations pacify it, and all is well.

At present it is safer to bet on the bull. "Big Steel" went to "a new high" yesterday.

RICH MEN pile up millions, build gigantic houses, die. Intelligent "real estaters" buy the houses, tear them down.

The New York City houses of Cornelius Vanderbilt, William H. Vanderbilt, W. K. Vanderbilt are all in the hands of "house wreckers;" also the gigantic, ugly palace built by Senator Clark on Fifth avenue. One concern will buy the ceiling made from a gigantic British oak, said to have been two thousand years old. Another will buy the great fireplace of Vienna marble, for a moving picture theatre.

Thus passes the glory of the great. Papa builds, son and daughter say, "Too old-fashioned, tear it down."

THE BRILLIANT young Chinese leader of the revolutionists from South China, Chang Kai-Shek, says of his Chinese followers: "We want to get rid of the foreign yoke and save China from our own militarists, who sell our riches to the foreigners."

CHANG SAYS also: "No man is too bad not to have enough rice, and no man is so good as to have too much to waste."

No wonder the Chinese millions, whose lives are unutterably miserable, follow a leader who says no man is so bad that he ought not "to have enough rice." Perhaps we have worried too much about the souls of the Chinese, and not enough about their supply of rice.

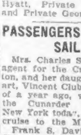
WE FORBID polygamy because Christianity forbids it. We say it is immoral.

In Egypt doctors of religious law, interpreting Mohammed's Koran, say monogamy is immoral, it is bad for women be unmarried, and many must remain single if you don't let each man marry several women. Mohammed said that a man should marry only as many women as he could make really happy. The modern Mohammedanism says that, in any case, a woman is happier married than unmarried.

A SENATE committee shows that ardent prohibitionists in six years spent $13,000,000 for prohibition. It seems a good deal, but is less than two cents per year per capita. You can't fight the Demon Rum, especially the bootleg Demon Rum, efficiently with that sum. Nevertheless, it would be interesting to know just how the $13,000,000 were spent.

GUARD OUTFIT ON AIR TONIGHT

National Guardsmen and prospective recruits will listen in this evening at 6:03 to the Station WEEI broadcast by the Headquarters Battery orchestra and entertainers.



Sergeant Ginn

This broadcast is in charge of First Sergeant William E. Ginn of Headquarters Battery, 101st Field Artillery, M. N. G., stationed at the Commonwealth Armory, whose entertainers have won an enviable reputation at social affairs conducted by the artillery outfits.

Among the players is a banjo ukulele artist known as the "musical battery clerk," who is said to be a rare performer. The outfit also includes First Lieutenant Arthur F. Dias, Staff Sergeant John E. Brennan, Corporal Charles F. Hyatt, Private Harold Michelson and Private George Akerly.

PASSENGERS ROM HUB SAIL ON CARINTHIA

Mrs. Charles Stewart, wife of the agent for the Cunard Line at Boston, and her daughter, Dorothy Stewart, Vincent Club girl and debutante of a year ago, were passengers on the Cunarder Carinthia, leaving New York today, bound for a Spring cruise to the Mediterranean.

Frank S. Davis, manager of the Chamber of Commerce Maritime Association, with Mrs. Davis, was among the other Bostonians to sail. Davis, armed with a letter from Mayor Nichols, will represent the Hub in a survey of foreign ports. At Hamburg a request will be made of the president of the Hamburg American Lines to re-name the steamship Cleveland the Boston in honor of her return to regular service here.

QUESTION 8 IN WHO'S WHO

A most versatile fellow!

And the picture? Its correct title may be found in the List of Titles. No one will find it difficult who has crossed the bridge to Charlestown, who is at all familiar with Portsmouth, N. H., or Newport, R. I., or the neighborhood of the Park street subway station, on an evening in Summer.

You have only to note, in the amusement columns, the character of the attractions offered by the three splendid theatres named in the List of Awards to realize the great value of a season ticket to any one of them.

These three playhouses are among the finest in the East. None is better. A tour of the Caribbean would cost more, but it may be said of the theatre tickets, as of the Browning-Drake radio set, that they will "last longer."

It is to be hoped that the contestants are taking the best of care of their Test Pictures. In the event of ties, remember, neatness may be the determining factor. Guard your pictures carefully until the close of the contest, when they are all to be sent in at one time together with a brief letter on "My Favorite Motion Picture Play, and Why It IS My Favorite."

Tomorrow, Test Problem No. 9.

CONSTABLES WANT LIQUOR THEY SALVAGED RETURNED

Charles H. Hitt, Harry and Philip Sherman and Omar Brightman, constables of the town of Westport, who with others were recently found not guilty in the Federal Court of smuggling 563 cases of alcohol ashore through Attorney John H. Backus of this city, asked that the wet goods be returned to them as salvors of the stuff and that they be permitted to sell it according to law.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

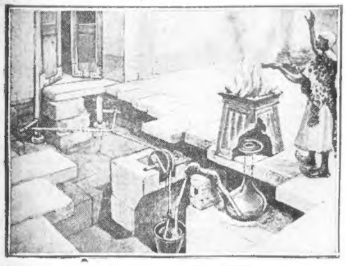
For BOSTON:
1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land; in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND:
1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Fooling the Ancients

How Pagan Priests Deceived Their Followers

In ancient days of Egypt the people demanded miracles. "Show us something impossible," they said, "and we shall believe you. If you can't do that, ordinary people like us will pay no attention to you."



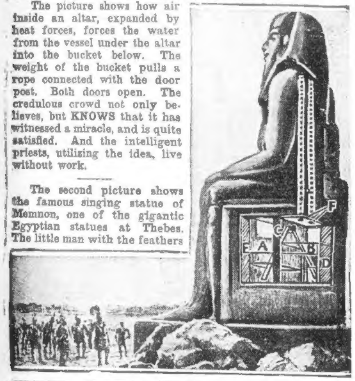
EGYPT'S MYSTERIOUSLY OPENING DOOR.

The picture above shows how ancient Egyptian priests, according to recent discoveries, caused the door of the Temple to open mysteriously, no human hand touching it.

That seemed a pretty good miracle, and probably brought contributions to the men who worked it.

The picture shows how air inside an altar, expanded by heat forces, forces the water from the vessel under the altar into the bucket below. The weight of the bucket pulls a rope connected with the door post. Both doors open. The credulous crowd not only believes, but KNOWS that it has witnessed a miracle, and is quite satisfied. And the intelligent priests, utilizing the idea, live without work.

The second picture shows the famous singing statue of Memnon, one of the gigantic Egyptian statues at Thebes. The little man with the feathers in his cap is Hadrian listening to the statue's voice at sunrise.



THE SINGING STATUE OF MEMNON.

According to our modern cold-blooded skeptical theories, the so-called "singing" was produced by the heat of the rising sun which caused compressed air to come up to the statue's neck, producing plaintive sounds as though the god might be singing. Noise made by use of compressed air is old. A treatise, "De Re Pneumatica," was written two hundred years before Christ, describing how compressed air was used by the priests of ancient Egypt.

Don't Squander It!

Your Bonus Certificate, Veterans, Is a Nest-Egg for Your Old Age; Don't Borrow Except in Crisis

This newspaper and its fellows in the Hearst service have done their share to help the veterans get loans on their bonus certificates.

At last these loans are available, thanks to an amendment to the bonus law passed by Congress before it adjourned on March 4.

After April 1 any veteran can take his certificate to any postoffice and learn how to apply for a loan from the Veterans' Bureau.

After having done our best to make these loans possible, we give this advice to the veterans:

DON'T BORROW UNLESS YOU HAVE TO.

There are 3,300,000 bonus certificates outstanding, payable in 1945. The average amount then due on each certificate will be $1,028.90.

If you are alive in 1945, that $1,028.90 will come in handy. If you are not alive, it will come in just as handy for your dependents or the relatives you have named as beneficiaries of the certificate.

Unless you can repay what you borrow now, it will be deducted from the certificate when it is paid you, PLUS compound interest at 6 per cent.

The average loan that can be made now is $90.53. Compounded at 6 per cent. annually, that sum will amount to $258.40 in 1945.

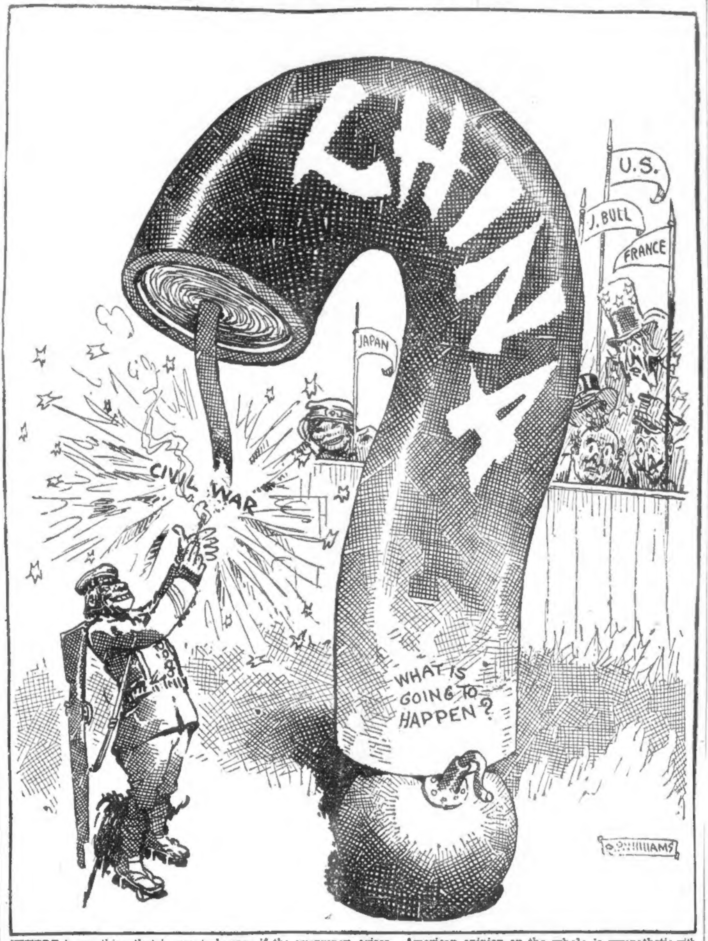
That is, you borrow $90.53 today and they charge you $258.40 for it when you are paid off in 1945.

Under such conditions no prudent veteran will borrow unless he knows he can repay or unless he is in real need.

If possible, hold your certificate untouched, like an investment, a savings account or an insurance policy.

Your bonus certificate is a nest-egg for your old age. Don't squander it.

The Burning Question -:- By O. P. Williams



THERE is one thing that is sure to happen if the emergency arises. American opinion on the whole is sympathetic with the desire to see China well governed and free. But American opinion will back President Coolidge to its last man and dollar in the protection of American lives and lawfully acquired property in China. The sooner this truth is realized by those in power in that ancient nation, the better for all concerned.

MAKING WILL THAT IS LAW-PROOF

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A TRUST company has issued a little booklet called "Studies in Wills."

This book is not for sale, but is distributed among interested parties.

The making of a will is a very old idea. It is the effort of a man to impose his desires upon his followers after he is dead.

The making of wills has furnished great work for many romantic tales and many of the facts of history in regard to it are quite interesting.

Many curious wills have been recorded. At one time it was claimed that Noah made a will, and one writer pretended to give his exact words.

Ptolemy the 13th of Egypt borrowed a lot of money and in order to protect his creditors made a will appointing the Roman Republic as his heir, thus bringing his dynasty to a close with his own decease.

When he died the Romans acknowledged the genuineness of the will, but contented themselves with "seizing, by virtue of the document, as much of the private fortune of the testator as they could lay hands on."

It behooves everyone to consult an attorney and make his will and make it law-proof. It is a good plan to name a trust company as one's executor because such a company is experienced and cannot die. This plan avoids much unnecessary litigation and saves the legatee from danger through unscrupulous stock promoters.

Everyone should make a will and put his property in the hands of a trust company to administer. Then there would be less unnecessary litigation in regard to various testaments.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

DO you tell your eight months baby that she's "Momsy's ownsie, itty-bitty honey-bunchins"?

Do you send joyous shivers scooting down three-year-old Billy's back with tales of Jack the Giant Killer and the Forty Thieves?

Yes? Then you're Minus Zero as a parent, according to Dr. G. Allen Coe, of the Washington State College.

Baby Talk and Fairy Tales are OUT with the Younger Generation, according to Dr. Coe. Young Bill doesn't want to hear gory yarns of impossible happenings. He yearns for the latest dope on submarines and aeroplanes. He'd much prefer an automobile show to a Bed-Time story. And as for this conversational drool which you hand out to Honeybunchins—.

"Don't talk baby talk to the child," protests Dr. Coe. "Talk to it like you would to a philosopher. Before long it will be talking to you like a philosopher. You get in return what you give to a child."

Maybe so.

We'd Lose More

But do we want philosophy from children? Do we want our children to talk like miniature Platos? Wouldn't we lose more than we would gain if we eliminated fairy tales from little Billy's life and wiped out all the make-believe?

The fairy tale isn't true and we know it isn't true. But the fairy tale appeals to something which is infinitely more valuable than all the automobile data ever assembled. It appeals to Billy's IMAGINATION.

Imagination frees Billy from his tiny body and limited environment into a gorgeous world of fancy. It spreads his dimensions until he straddles the earth and rubs noses with the stars. It fills him with visions and power and a hunger to go on and on, opening endless secret doors, looting countless treasure sacks. With imagination he rules the stars and holds the lightning in his little hand.

Talk Make-Believe.

Even if you're bent on making a Bernard Shaw or an Edison out of young Billy, the best way to go about it is to tell him fairy tales and talk in make-believe. For philosophy itself is a fairy tale and so is engineering. They both start in make-believe and go on and on, opening secret doors, looting treasure sacks. If Edison had dealt only in proven facts and definite data, the phonograph would never have been invented. If Shaw and Emerson, Plato and Wells hadn't thought in somersaults, their essays would never have been written. The radio is a fairy tale come true—and the story of Christ himself is white magic flickering over a spell-bound world.

Let Billy go on playing Injun with a couple of chairs, a blanket and the feather duster. Let the baby gurgle nonsense and answer her in kind. For the best truth is still hidden in the world of make-believe, my friend, and "unless ye become as a little child" you will never find it.

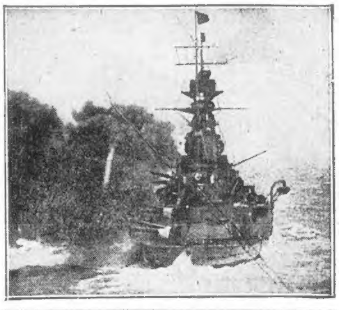
Holding Empire Together

British Statesmen UNDERSTAND That Art



HIS MAJESTY'S BATTLESHIP "HOOD" FIRING A "SALVO."

This great battleship, and many like her, were reviewed by Premiers of the British dominions, Canada, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand, when they visited the mother country lately.

The floating power of the Empire was brought out for those visiting Premiers to see, and at the same time the British fighting fleet filled the air.

This battleship, the Hood, gave an exhibition of target shooting that amazed and impressed the men from overseas.

The target, ninety feet wide, and ninety feet high, smaller than a battleship, was fired at and struck repeatedly by gunners of the Hood, from a distance of 18,000 yards, more than ten miles. But the "range finders," nice adjustment and elevation of the cannon, enabled the gunners repeatedly to send their shot through that small target, ten miles away.

That is the sort of thing that holds the British Empire together. The dominions know that this is a world in which, as a last resort, strength rules and fighting is inevitable.

Britain has MONEY, POWER, great SHIPS, STATESMEN. Those Premiers undoubtedly told their people when they returned home, "That old mother country is a good old mother country to stick to. She has strength."

Incidentally, this country, which has politicians instead of statesmen, was building battleships as great as the "Hood" and greater when the Washington conference was called. We allowed ourselves to be persuaded to junk those battleships, destroying them before they were finished, at a cost of hundreds of millions.

CRAVATS

IF you're trying to guess who has the strangest hobby in the Hub stop at the name of FRANK CIFRINO of UPHAM'S CORNER and the market district. FRANK'S hobby is swapping neckties, not idle or dormant ties, but neck from neck. He's getting quite a collection of strange and fascinating cravats.

SCHEME.

A bargain is a bargain to femininity from birth. In DORCHESTER, two nine-year-olds have discovered that you can have a 15-cent ice cream soda for a dime, by the exercise of a little ingenuity. Purchase a plain soda for a nickel, buy an ice cream cone for another nickel, drop the ice cream into the soda, stir well and serve. And MADELINE MAGUIRE, niece of FREDDY MAGUIRE, old HOLY CROSS baseball star, and BETTY JOHNSON, daughter of a City Hall official, still have their empty cones to munch on.

OUT.

EX-MAYOR GEORGE LOUIS RICHARDS of Malden, who for many years was one of the leading figures in the LEGISLATURE, surprised his friends when he retired from the House last year. Today he explained his retirement. "If I was younger I'd remain in politics and might make the governorship. But not at my age. There is LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR ALLEN. He will serve two terms. Then there are several other young men who are going right up the ladder. Keep your eye on REPRESENTATIVE WADSWORTH. If I were 20 years younger, I'd be in it myself, but I retired when I knew my age was against me."

LOVERS OF FLOWERS

Spring brings flowers, and flowers give pleasure to a great many people. Included among flower lovers are many of the leading business and financial lights of the Commonwealth. ALBERT C. BURRAGE, for example, with vast mining and other interests, is president of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, while EDWIN S. WEBSTER of Stone & Webster, director in two-score corporations, is a vice-president.
